CHINA AND JAPAN.

The Flying Scud—Reception of Prince Alfred in Japan—A Public Reception Refused by the Emperor of China—Attempt to Assassinate the British Minister to Japan.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 20.—The steamship America, from Hong Kong, brings the following news:

Nothing had been heard from the ship Flying Scud, which left Yokohama on the 17th of August last. It is known that she encountered a typhoon, and it is feared that the ship and all hands are lost.

The reception of the Duke of EDINBURGH at Yokohama was very cordial. The British residents presented an address. On the 1st of September he was the guest of the Mikado at Yeddo. A fleet of nine Japanese war vessels was at Yeddo. Heavy rains prevented the contemplated outdoor festivities. On the 4th the Duke, Sir HARRY PARKS and Admiral KEPPEL paid a state visit to the Mikado. The Galatea, with the Prince on board, left Yokohama on the 16th for China. It was understood that he would visit Pekin as a private individual, the Emperor of China having refused him a State reception.

A recent attempt to assassinate the British Minister at Yeddo was frustrated.

Prince TODO, a powerful Daimio, had been assassinated. The Prince was a staunch ally of the Tycoon, and his murder was on account of some political differences.

Prince SATSUMA and another Prince had quarreled, and war was likely to result from it.

The Japanese Parliament has voted to surrender all the estates, retainers and revenue belonging to them as Daimios to the Mikado, and receive from him honorary titles instead of that of Daimio, and an allowance of one-tenth of their revenues, with relief from the support of their old retainers.

There had been numerous executions at Yeddo. Admiral ENOMATO had been sentenced to death, but his life will probably be spared.

The following news is received from China:

The Austrian Embassy having concluded a treaty with China, arrived at Osaca on the 24th of September, en route to Yeddo, to negotiate a treaty with Japan.

The British Press of China are filled with bitter comments on the report from Pekin that Prince KUNG had refused to receive the Duke of EDINBURGH.

The Oriental Hotel, at Macao, had been totally destroyed by fire.

A large Saigon rice junk blew up at Swatow. Thirty Chinamen were killed and fifty wounded.

The murderer of HOLWORTHY, at Hong Kong, had been discharged.

The inhabitants of Tsunyefoo, in the Province of Szehuen, had destroyed the Roman Catholic Church in that place, and maltreated the native Christians.

Great preparations were being made at Hong Kong to receive the Duke of EDINBURGH. The Prince had decided not to visit Shanghae.

Rev. J. WILLIAMSON, late of the London Missionary Society, was murdered on the 26th of August by Chinese robbers, near Tientzin, while proceeding up the Grand Canal. Several outrages on foreigners were reported.

The United States flagship Delaware, and the Monocacy and Ashuelot, were at Yokohama. The Oneida was on the way to San Francisco. The Unadilla and Maumee were on southern stations. The Aroostook had been sold at Yokohama, and the Ashuelot and Monocacy were likely to find purchasers in China.

SPAIN.

Sessions of the Cortes Resumed—Thanks to the Army—Prim's Political Faith—The Leaders to be Shot.

MADRID, Oct. 21.—The sessions of the Cortes have been resumed. A resolution thanking the army for their efforts in quelling the recent Republican insurrection was unanimously adopted yesterday.

General PRIM, at the session to-day, referring to the rumors current in regard to his political faith, declared that he was a monarchist, and as such was opposed to the establishment of a Republic in Spain.

All the Republican leaders captured with arms in their hands and at the head of armed bands are to be shot. Some executions have already taken place.

The Duke of MONTPENSIER has interceded with the Regent for the life of the leader of the attempted revolt at Seville.

SPAIN AND CUBA.

The Understanding Between the Patriots of Both Countries—Additional Spanish Forces for Cuba.

MADRID, Oct. 21.—It is reported that Captain-General DE RODAS has informed the Home Government that the rebels in Cuba have all along had active relations with the Republican insurgents in Spain, and that arrangements have been made between them for mutual encouragement and assistance.

Reinforcements for Cuba to the number of 3,000 men sailed yesterday for Havana. Additional troops will be sent early in November. The defeat of the Republicans here places a large number of men at the disposal of the Government, which proposes to take advantage of the opportunity and act vigorously for the complete suppression of the rebellion in Cuba.

FRANCE.

The National Guard to be Reorganized—Ministerial Affairs—The Liberal Deputies—A Rumor Contradicted—Marshal Bazaine's First Order.

PARIS, Oct. 21.—It is rumored that the National Guard will be reorganized at once.

The Emperor will come to Paris on the 25th inst. The Ministers will remain at Compiegne until the 24th, when they will return to Paris. It is officially stated that the Ministerial programme will soon be made public.

The Ultra-Imperialist Deputies to the Corps meet to-morrow to reorganize their party. A meeting is called by M. MATHIEU, a friend of M. ROUHER. Twenty-seven Deputies adhere to the manifesto of the opposition members of the Corps. The liberal voters of Paris generally indorse the manifesto.

The report that Prince METTERNICH, the Austrian Minister, has resigned on account of a duel is positively contradicted.

Marshal BAZAINE, on taking command of the Imperial Guard, issued a very energetic order of the day.

GREAT BRITAIN.

The Fenian Prisoners—The Cabinet Unanimously Opposed to their Release.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—Mr. GLADSTONE, in a recent letter, says the members of the Government have carefully examined the memorials for the release of the Fenian prisoners, and have unanimously decided that such release would be contrary to their duty as guardians of the public security and peace.

PRUSSIA AND AUSTRIA.

The Entente Cordiale—Visit of the Crown Prince to Vienna.

VIENNA, Oct. 21.—The Crown Prince of Prussia has arrived here, and is well received by the Emperor. Peace now seems to be assured between Prussia and Austria.

AUSTRIA AND ITALY.

The Rumors of an Interview Between the Sovereigns Increasing.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—The rumors that the Emperor of Austria and the King of Italy will soon have an interview are increasing.

THE PAPAL STATES.

Arrival of Canadian Recruits for the Papal Army.

ROME, Oct. 21.—Ninety-six recruits for the Papal army arrived here from Canada yesterday.

The Ex-King and Queen of Naples have arrived in this city.

THE BROOKS ASSASSINS.

Opening of the Trial at Philadelphia—The Driver's Testimony—Mysterious Disappearance of Two Important Witnesses.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 21.—The trial of MORROW and DOUGHERTY, charged with the attempted assassination of BROOKS, began this morning before Judge LUDLOW. Several witnesses were examined, but nothing new was elicited up to the recess.

NEIL MCLAUGHLIN was afterward placed on the stand as a witness for the prosecution. He swore positively that he had never seen MORROW or DOUGHERTY until he met them in New-York; that he drove the carriage, and was hired to do so by two men whom he did not know. Subsequently Mayor FOX testified that MCLAUGHLIN, on two occasions before him, made sworn statements that he was hired to drive the carriage by MORROW and DOUGHERTY, and he also detailed the whole proceedings of Sept. 6. MCLAUGHLIN will hereafter be tried for perjury. In the course of the trial to-day other witnesses identified MORROW and DOUGHERTY as being about KEENAN's store just before the shooting, and on the previous day. Two important witnesses for the prosecution, who were in Court this morning, mysteriously disappeared this afternoon, and cannot be found. It is feared that they have been made away with by whisky dealers. The direction of the testimony to-day was toward showing that Mr. BROOKS had been followed by men who wished to take his life for some two weeks previous to Sept. 6.

CONVENTIONS.

The River Improvement Convention at Portage City, Wis.—The National Capital Convention—The Railroad Conductors and Engineers at Columbus and Baltimore.

PORTAGE CITY, WIS., Oct. 21.—The River Improvement Convention, embracing about 600 delegates, was permanently organized, with Governor MERRILL, of Iowa, as Permanent Chairman, and Governor MARSHALL, of Minnesota, Governor FAIRCHILD, of Wisconsin, and others as Vice-Presidents. After disposing of its business satisfactorily it adjourned, subject to the call of its officers. The resolutions set forth among other things: That a route by which the Mississippi steamboats can unload into lake vessels is a necessity; that such route can be made through the Fox and Wisconsin Rivers, and that the Government is pledged to make them highways, having kept control of them by the act which admitted Wisconsin; that, as the cost of a steamboat channel will not greatly exceed $4,000,000, it would be wrong to put it off; that the Erie Canal, with its contracted channel, small locks and slow movement—thirty-six miles in twenty-four hours—has kept down freight charges, a river route with a few large locks, allowing a speed of 150 miles in twenty-four hours, will protect the Northwestern States from unmeasurable charges or dangerous conditions; that the great commerce of the Erie Canal, in the face of the greatest competition, shows that water routes are demanded, values of coarse productions being lost without them, and railroads, by filling the country with population, have made water routes necessary; that the want of the Northwest is cheap transportation; that this can only be secured by a water route which all have a right to use with their own vessels upon equal terms, thus giving the public the benefits of free competition.

THE CAPITAL CONVENTION.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 21.—The National Capital Convention spent the morning in discussing the report of the Committee on Resolutions.

The following are the resolutions reported:

Whereas, The present site of the national capital was selected as the most central point when the people of this Republic were only a few millions in number, and inhabited only narrow strips of country along the Atlantic coast; and,

Whereas, As the population of this Republic has increased thirteen-fold since then, and spread over the vast continent, of which the States in existence when the seat of Government was located formed the eastern edge; and,

Whereas, The present location of the national capital is notoriously inconvenient in times of peace, and the darkest pages of our national history demonstrate that in time of war or domestic turbulence it is so dangerously exposed as to require vast armaments and untold millions of money for its special defence: and,

Whereas, All the reasons which caused the location of the seat of Government where it now is have by the enormous development of the country and corresponding change in the wants of the people become utterly obsolete; therefore,

Resolved, That it is absurd to suppose that the handful of inhabitants in 1789, just emerging from colonial vassalage, before steamboats, railways, telegraphs or power presses were dreamed of, a mile of turnpike or canal constructed, possessed the authority or desired to exercise the power of fixing the capital forever on the banks of the Potomac, against the will and interests of hundreds of millions who might come after them.

Resolved, That the people have endured the present illy-located capital for three-quarters of a century, patiently waiting for the vast territory of the Union to be peopled and organized into States, and until the centre of population and wealth be determined, when a permanent place of residence for the Government could be selected; that time has come, all sectional issues are settled, all dangerous domestic variances are disposed of, a new era has been entered upon and a new departure taken.

Resolved, That, in the language of JAMES MADISON, in the Congress of 1789, an equal attention to the rights of the community is the basis of republics; if we consider the effects of the legislative power on the aggregate community, we must feel equal inducements to look to the centre in order to find the proper seat of Government; this equal attention has not been, and cannot be given to the interests and rights of the people so long as the capital is located in an inconvenient section of the nation.

Resolved, That the vast and fertile region known as the Mississippi Valley must for all time be the seat of empire of this continent, and exert the controlling influence in the nation, because it is homogeneous in its interests and too vast ever to permit the out-lying States to sever their connection with the Union. This vast plain will always be the surplus food-producing portion of the continent, and the great market for the fine fabrics and tropical productions of other sections of the Republic; this immense basin must have numerous outlets and channels of cheap and swift communication by water and rail, with the seaboard for the egress of its productions and ingress of its exchange; therefore whatever policy the Government may pursue that tends to multiply, improve or enlarge these articles of commerce, it must result in common advantage to the whole Union—to the seaboard States equally with those of the centre.

Resolved, That the natural, convenient and inevitable place for the capital of the Republic is in the heart of this valley, where the centre of population, wealth and power is irresistibly gravitating; where the Government, surrounded by numerous millions of brave and Union-loving citizens, would be forever safe against foreign foes or sectional seditions, and where it would need neither armaments nor standing armies for its protection.

Resolved, That while advocating the removal of the seat of Government to the Mississippi Valley, we do not mean to serve the interests of any particular locality, but that we urge Congress to appoint a commission for the purpose of selecting a convenient site for the national capital in the great Valley of the Mississippi.

Resolved, That in urging the removal of the national capital from its present inconvenient, out-of-the-way and exposed locality, or extreme border of the Union, we are in earnest, and that we shall not cease our efforts until that end is accomplished, firmly believing that the absolute necessity of a removal will be more apparent every day, and that a majority of the American people will not long permit their interests and convenience to be disregarded.

Resolved, That a removal of the national capital being only a question of time, we emphatically oppose all expenditures of money for the enlargement of the old Government buildings and the erection of new ones at the present seat of the National Government, as a useless and wanton waste of the property of the people.

The following resolution was offered by Hon. SIDNEY CLARK, of Kansas, and, after discussion, laid on the table:

Resolved, That this Convention do recommend and request all Congressional nominating Conventions in the various States to incorporate in their platforms a demand for the removal of the national capital to a more central and convenient locality.

The President, at the evening session, announced the Executive Committee as follows: C. E. Carr, Illinois; G. T. Magoun, Iowa; J. F. Miller, Oregon; L. H. Reaves, Missouri; John Coburn, Indiana; H. C. Harmouth, Louisiana; G. N. Stuart, Alabama; Wm. A. Pile, New-Mexico; J. Eddie, Pennsylvania; A. J. Kellar, Tennessee; S. B. Churchill, Kentucky; Wm. Gilpin, Colorado; E. S. Hubbard, Alaska; Thomas Moonlight, Kansas; Alvan Saunders, Nebraska; Thomas E. Tutt, Montano; C. G. Forshe, Texas; C. H. Hempted, Utah. They will issue an address to the people of the Republic. Governor SAUNDERS, of Nebraska, and Hon. J. S. ROLLINS, of Missouri, made speeches, after which the Convention adjourned, to meet at the Southern Hotel at 9 o'clock to-morrow morning, when they will adjourn sine die.

THE CONDUCTORS' CONVENTION.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 21.—The session of the Conductors' National Convention was called to order at 10 o'clock this morning. The reports of the Committees on Finances and Grievances and on the Constitution and By-laws were agreed to. The Executive Committee was instructed to arrange for a trip to Louisville and return for the Convention. J. W. SEYMOUR, of the Illinois Central Railroad, was selected to deliver the next annual address.

The following officers for the ensuing year were elected:

President, JAMES MARSHALL, of the New-York and Harlem Railroad; Vice-President, SAMUEL TITUS, of the New-York Central Railroad; Secretary and Treasurer, HENRY C. FARMER; Executive Committee, JOHN W. MOORE, of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad; I. N. HORNER, of the Pittsburg, Cincinnati and St. Louis Railroad; N. L. WOOD, of the Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati and Indianapolis Railroad. The Convention adjourned to meet in Philadelphia on the first Wednesday in October, 1870.

THE ENGINEERS' CONVENTION.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 21.—The sixth annual Convention of locomotive engineers met in this city yesterday. Delegates from nearly all the States and Canada were present. CHARLES WILSON, Grand Chief Engineer of the Brotherhood, delivered a long address, congratulating the Convention on the advancement of the Brotherhood since the last annual session. During the year fourteen charters were granted for new Divisions. The address was chiefly devoted to the subjects of elevating the standing and improving the efficiency of locomotive engineers, and recommended total abstinence from all that can intoxicate as the only safe and consistent ground for the Brotherhood. The Mast Hope disaster on the Erie Railway was reviewed, and the cause assigned that the engineer had been running two successive nights without sleep. The address was ordered to be published.

THE WORKINGWOMEN IN BOSTON.

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—A convention of workingwomen convened in Faneuil Hall to-day, and organized as follows: President, Mrs. E. L. DANIELS, of Boston; Vice-Presidents, Mrs. E. LANE, of Lynn; Miss JENNIE COLLINS, of Boston; Colonel W. B. GREENE, of Jamaica Plain; Mrs. SYMES, of Boston; Mrs. E. P. LENTON, of Charlestown; Mrs. JONES, of Stoneham.

Resolutions were presented against the centralization of wealth and power, as repressing the development of the masses, claiming equal wages for men and women where the work performed is equal in quality and quantity, indorsing the labor reform movements and protesting against the long hours of labor in factories, and the overworking of children of tender age. The Convention during the day was thinly attended.

The Convention will continue throughout to-morrow, when Miss ANTHONY, Mrs. STANTON, and Mrs. LIVERMORE, of Chicago, are expected to speak.

THE PEACE JUBILEE.

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 21.—The Executive Committee of the National Peace Jubilee Association, having closed their accounts, make the following statement of the pecuniary results of that great enterprise:

Total	$283,388 29

The Committee, in closing their report, say: "Contrary to the general apprehension, the receipts of the Jubilee were sufficient to pay all its expenses without calling upon the guaranteed fund. The balance remaining in the treasury is absolutely at the disposal of the Committee, to be used for the reimbursement of their own expenses, compensation for their services, or for any other purpose to which they may please to appropriate it. They have unanimously decided to add this amount to the proceeds of the benefit concert given to Mr. GILMORE, as their own testimonial of appreciation of his genius and tireless energy in inaugurating one of the most brilliant and successful entertainments of modern times. The proceeds of the concert amounted to $32,146, and the balance in the treasury $6,882 04, making the total testimonial placed in trust for Mr. GILMORE and his family $39,028,04."

POLITICAL AFFAIRS.

TENNESSEE.

The Senatorial Contest—Four Ineffectual Ballots—Johnson Still Gaining—A Truce for a Day.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

KNOXVILLE, Oct. 21.—This has been an exciting day in Knoxville. The Legislature met in Joint Convention at 12 o'clock, and, with overcrowded galleries, commenced balloting. On the first ballot JOHNSON received 45; ETHERIDGE, 26; FLETCHER, 12; NEIL BROWN, 7; PEYTON, 6; EWING, 4; M. BROWN, 2; NELSON, 1. This shows a gain of four for JOHNSON over yesterday, and a loss of three for ETHERIDGE. On the second ballot JOHNSON received 45; ETHERIDGE, 28; FLETCHER, 12, and the rest scattering as before. A motion to adjourn was lost by the vote of the Johnson men, amid applause. The third ballot was then taken, and JOHNSON received 48; ETHERIDGE, 29; FLETCHER, 11.

Another motion to adjourn was lost. In accordance with an agreement of the Stokes Republicans, made last night, they transferred their vote en masse to ETHERIDGE, with the intention of forcing JOHNSON from the field, which resulted on the fourth ballot in JOHNSON receiving 48, ETHERIDGE 41, and the rest scattering, JOHNSON lacking but seven votes of an election. This effort of the Stokes Republicans left JOHNSON where he was before, but made his friends more bitter and determined than before. They yielded to a motion to adjourn, so as to canvass the new situation.

The Stokes Republicans will vote for ETHERIDGE again, if thereby they can defeat JOHNSON, but this seems doubtful. Private advices from JOHNSON's friends indicate confidence that he will be elected to-morrow, and his friends throughout the State are jubilant to-night. The combinations against him have about spent their force, and he gains with the people every day the contest is protracted. His friends realize that this is to be his greatest victory or worst defeat.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—A dispatch received here to-day from EMERSON ETHERIDGE says that, in his opinion, neither himself nor Mr. JOHNSON can be elected Senator from Tennessee, and that some new man will probably be taken up.

MASSACHUSETTS.

The Seventh Congressional District—George M. Brooks Nominated by the Republicans.

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—The Seventh District Republican Convention met at Concord to-day and organized by choosing HENRY WILSON to preside. Senator WILSON expressed his gratitude for the mark of approbation conferred on him. He found there was deep interest here to-day, but trusted all would act with moderation and harmony, and remember that they represented no local interest, but a great and liberty-loving party, with a record far nobler than that of any other in America; that we had GRANT for our President, and that he was conducting his Administration on a far higher plan than any since JOHN QUINCY ADAMS.

An informal ballot was then taken for candidate for Congress, in which 112 votes were cast, Geo. M. Brooks, of Concord, receiving 42; Dr. J. C. Ayer, of Lowell, 27; Joshua Marshall, of Newton, 13, and D. H. Richardson, of Lowell, 8. The name of Judge Richardson was withdrawn and a formal ballot taken with the following result: Whole number of votes 112; necessary for a choice, 57; Geo. M. Brooks, 69; Dr. Ayer, 27; J. Marshall, 12; D. Hitchcock, 1; F. M. Johnson, 2; Thomas Rice, 1.

The nomination of Mr. BROOKS for Congress was then made unanimous.

VIRGINIA.

The New United States Senators.

The Richmond Dispatch gives the following sketch of the life of Lieutenant-Governor JOHN F. LEWIS, who has been elected one of the United States Senators from Virginia:

"LEWIS is a name well known throughout Virginia. It has been worn by many of her best citizens in colonial and revolutionary times, and in the present day. Not a few members of the family have been honored with positions of trust in the State and National Government. The subject of this sketch is a son of General SAMUEL H. LEWIS, of Rockingham, a man of unusual talents and fine attainments, recently deceased. He has always lived in the neighborhood of his birthplace, and, devoting himself to agriculture, has, by industry and honest dealing, amassed a competency for his family. He has never dabbled in politics, but his opinions on public affairs are always clearly defined, frankly expressed, and generally known to the people of his county. In 1860 they elected him by a handsome majority to the State Convention. As a candidate he proclaimed himself an unconditional Unionist, and as a member of the Convention every vote cast proved him faithful to his pledges. Conscientious in the belief that the true welfare of Virginia depended upon her adherence to the Federal Government, he stood out, like a LEWIS, to the last, and was one of the few members who persistently refused to sign the ordinance of secession, and never did sign it.

During the war Mr. LEWIS maintained his Union sentiments, when nearly every man of us believed it treason to do so; but he was always a Virginian, and whatever might have been the judgment of the body of the people upon his course, he never for a moment lost the respect or confidence of the people of his immediate vicinity to whom he was best known. Since the war he has taken a prominent part in the work of reconstruction, but has never fraternized with the extremists, believing that the work might be safely intrusted to citizens of Virginia. At the late election he was chosen Lieutenant-Governor by a majority of 20,443; his personal popularity being attested by the fact that he led his ticket by 2,116 votes. He now fills the office of Lieutenant-Governor by military appointment, and is ex officio President of the Senate. Governor LEWIS is about 50 years of age, is tall, rather awkward in his movements, but has very pleasant manners, and makes friends easily. He is a highly-esteemed member of the Episcopal Church, and is a frequent attendant upon the councils and conventions of that denomination.

Of the other Senator the Richmond State Journal speaks thus:

Judge JOHN W. JOHNSTON, of Abingdon, represents the Southern element of the caucus to which he owes his nomination. He is one of the new Judges who were appointed last Spring by General STONEMAN; having been rendered eligible by an act of Congress, passed at the instance of Mr. KELLY, of Philadelphia, removing his disabilities.

Judge JOHNSTON is about 50 years of age, and was educated at the University of South Carolina, at Columbia. Except in his new office of Judge, Mr. JOHNSTON has only been once in public life, which was as a member of the Virginia Senate in 1847-8, from the Tazewell District. He was then one of the famous twenty-three who refused to go into caucus with the Democratic Party, and who united with the Whigs in electing Mr. HUNTER and afterward Mr. MASON to the Senate of the United States over Governor SMITH and Governor MCDOWELL. Judge JOHNSTON is a brother-in-law of the late General JOHN B. FLOYD, and is a nephew of General JOSEPH E. JOHNSTON. He is also a nephew of Mr. BEVERLY R. JOHNSTON, a distinguished lawyer of Southwestern Virginia, and of General PETER C. JOHNSTON, a member of the Virginia Convention of 1861. He is grandson of Judge PETER JOHNSTON, who was a prominent champion of State Rights in the Virginia General Assembly of '98-'99. Judge JOHNSTON was the Receiver, or Confiscating agent of the Confederate Government, during the war, for Southwestern Virginia.

Judge JOHNSTON enjoys a high reputation for legal learning and ability, but is too retiring and diffident for a deliberative body and for success in Senatorial gladiation. Judge JOHNSTON's record identifies him with the extreme chivalry, but he has been conservative in his views since the close of the war, and supported the Committee of Nine and the Walker ticket.

STATE POLITICS.

The Republicans of the Second District of Ulster County have nominated CAREY S. CONNELLY, of Esopus, for member of Assembly. He was their candidate last year, and was defeated by only a few votes.

The Democrats of the Twelfth District have nominated E. SMITH STRAIT for Senator.

Colonel E. A. NASH, who was nominated as a second Republican candidate for Senator in the Thirty-second District, has declined the nomination. The Republicans will, therefore, concentrate their strength upon Mr. ALLEN D. SCOTT.

The Democrats of Livingston County have nominated Mr. F. C. PECK, of Nunda, for member of Assembly.

The integrity and ability of Hon. WILLIAM M. ELY, of Broome County, obtained for him a renomination for the Assembly by the unanimous vote of the Republican Convention. It is ERASTUS ELY, a Democrat, of Oneida County, who has received permission from his past constituents to stay at home.

THOMAS B. ALLANSON is the Democratic candidate for member of Assembly in the Fourth District of Oneida County.

J. W. MERCHANT, of De Ruyter, has been nominated for the Assembly by the Republicans of the First District of Madison County.

The Democrats of Ulster County have made the following nominations for members of Assembly: First District, PATRICK J. FLYNN; Second District, ABRAHAM E. HASBROUCK; Third District, CHARLES H. KRACK.

DANIEL MYERS is the Democratic candidate for member of Assembly in the Second District of Erie County.

The Republicans of Schoharie County have nominated JESSE N. CORNELL, of North Blenheim, for member of Assembly.

The Republicans of Columbia County yesterday nominated PHILIP ROCKEFELLER for Justice of Sessions, and GEORGE S. SNYDER, of Ghent, and FREDERICK D. PULTS, of Claverack, as Superintendents of the Poor.

HARVEY J. CLUTE, of Cohoes, has been nominated as the Republican candidate for member of Assembly for the Fourth District of Albany County.

The Republicans of the Ninth Senatorial District have nominated DAVID S. ROWE, of Mount Pleasant, Westchester County, for Senator. The Sing Sing Republican says Mr. ROWE is a teacher, a gentleman of culture and great personal worth, and that his qualifications for the position are superior in every respect.

At a meeting of members of the Bar in Albany yesterday, Messrs. George F. Comstock, William M. Evarts, Francis Kernan, Ira Harris, Daniel Pratt, John H. Reynolds, John Ganson, Joseph Mullin, William A. Beach, Charles Andrews, Hiram Gray, William A. Wheeler, Rufus W. Peckham and Joshua M. Van Cott were appointed a committee to prepare and report an address to the people, recommending the adoption of the judiciary article of the Constitution. They subsequently reported an address, and it was adopted unanimously. The address closes as follows:

"We beg leave to suggest the following form of ballot, to be prepared and issued by local Committees in both political parties: On the outside, 'Constitution, Judiciary;' within, 'For the amended judiciary article.' We beg leave also to say to our professional brethren throughout the State that this is a subject which lies peculiarly within their knowledge and experience, and that they have in it a peculiar interest. Upon a question which so deeply involves the administration of justice, usefulness and respectability of our profession, we ought to sink the politician and become intelligent and upright guides to public opinion and action. Let us therefore assume the responsibility and exercise the influence which in the situation justly belong to us. If the views we have suggested meet with the general approval, the members of the Bar should, in every locality, look to the ballots and give their personal attendance at the polls."

THE AMENDED CONSTITUTION.

Canvass of the Vote in New-York and Brooklyn—Opinion of the Attorney-General.

STATE OF NEW-YORK,
OFFICE OF THE ATTORNEY-GENERAL,
ALBANY, Oct. 20, 1869.

SIR: Your letter of inquiry of the date of Oct. 1, inst., would have received an earlier reply but for my absence when it was received at this office.

I am of opinion the ballots cast at the ensuing election, for or against the amended Constitution, in New-York and Brooklyn, must be canvassed by the District Canvassers, instead of the Inspectors of Election and Registry in such Districts.

It is true, as you suggest, that section 3 of the act of April 24, 1869, regulating the submission of the new Constitution to the electors of the State, provides that "the Inspectors in each election district, after the closing of the polls at such election, shall count and canvass separately the ballots deposited in each of the said boxes, in the manner prescribed by law in reference to other elections."

Literally construed, this provision might be open to the construction that the canvass should be made by the Inspectors. But it must be read with other provisions and harmonized with them.

By the Registry act of 1865, and laws amending the same, two canvassers are to be appointed in each election district in the Cities of New-York and Brooklyn, whose duty it is to proceed and canvass the votes at other elections immediately after the closing of the polls.

The Inspectors of Election simply preside at the election and receive the votes and deliver the ballot boxes to the canvassers at the close of the election.

By the general election laws the Board of District Canvassers are required, after completing the canvass, to deliver the certificate of canvass to the Board of County Canvassers. The Board of County Canvassers are to proceed upon such certificates to make the county canvass.

Section 4 of the act of April 24, 1869, further provides that "the votes so given shall be canvassed by the several Boards of County Canvassers at the next meeting thereafter, after such election, and the aggregate results in the several counties shall be canvassed and certified by the Board of State Canvassers. The existing laws in reference to a general election shall in all respects, so far as applicable, apply to and regulate the proceedings and duties of the said Boards of County and State Canvassers," &c.

By the existing laws in reference to a general election the Boards of County Canvassers in New-York and Brooklyn are authorized to canvass upon certificates made to them by the District Canvassers.

They have no power to canvass upon returns made to them by District Inspectors, because such Inspectors have no power to act as canvassers.

In effect, the provision from the fourth section last cited applies the existing law to the canvass to be made in the districts as well as in the counties.

The provision quoted from the third section is given full effect by its application to the other election districts in the State in which the Inspectors make the canvass, and in which there is no such officer as a District Canvasser distinct from the Inspectors.

It would be incongruous and lead to confusion to hold that a part of the boxes and ballots in New-York and Brooklyn are to be delivered to and the votes counted by one board of officers, and part retained and canvassed by another.

I entertain no doubt but that it was the clear intention of the Legislature that the ballots cast for and against the amended Constitution in New-York and Brooklyn should be canvassed by the Board of District Canvassers as other ballots cast at the ensuing election are required to be convassed. Respectfully yours,

MARSHALL B. CHAMPLAIN,
Attorney-General.

To EDWARD B. CADLEY, Esq., Clerk of the Board of Supervisors, Kings County.

The Board of Metropolitan Police yesterday passed the following resolution:

Resolved, That the counsel of this Board are requested to report as promptly as practicable their opinion whether the votes to be given in the City of New-York, under chapter 318 of the laws of 1869, for and against the amended Constitution and specified parts thereof, must be canvassed, and the number thereof certified and returned by the "inspectors" of the general election districts of said City, or whether they may be lawfully canvassed and certified by the canvassers of said election districts appointed under chapter 812 of the laws of 1861.

LOCAL POLITICS.

Central Republican County Convention.

The adjourned County Convention of the Twenty-eighth-street Republican Organization was held last evening at Apollo Hall, with Hon. EDGAR KETCHUM presiding. The Conference Committee reported the following names for nomination by the Convention:

For Supervisor, Henry W. Smith; for District-Attorney, E. Delafield Smith; for Surrogate, Isaac Dayton; for Coroner, Nelson W. Young; for Justice of the Supreme Court, Erastus C. Benedict; for Justices of the Superior Court, Freeman J. Fithian, Charles Goepp, and (to fill vacancy) Samuel C. Reed; for Judge of the Common Pleas, Eliah F. Hall; for Judge of the Marine Court, Charles T. Polhamus; for Recorder, Judge Lathrop. The report was accepted, and it was moved that HENRY W. SMITH be nominated for Supervisor. A motion to postpone the consideration of Mr. SMITH's nomination was made by Mr. STRATTON, on account of the provision of the act passed by the present Legislature, which enacts that "any one of the said (Police) Commissioners, or any member of the Police force, who shall, after qualifying in office, accept any additional place of public trust or civil emolument, or who shall, during his term of office, be publicly nominated for any office elective by the people, and shall not, within ten days succeeding the same, publicly decline the said nomination, shall, in either case, be deemed thereby to have resigned his commission and to have vacated his office, and all votes cast at any election for any person holding the office of Police Commissioner, or within thirty days after he shall have resigned such office, shall be void."

This gave rise to an animated debate. Judge LATHROP declared his opinion that Mr. SMITH's case was completely covered by the enactment referred to, and that his nomination would be a farce and the votes cast for him wasted. Dr. HOEBER followed in the same vein, and other addresses were made pro and con. A motion was made by JOHN J. O'BRIEN to take an informal ballot for the nomination of Supervisor, but the motion was lost, and after further discussion the motion to nominate HENRY W. SMITH was renewed and carried. It was then moved that the rest of the ticket be nominated by acclamation. In regard to the nomination for the Supreme Court, Mr. KETCHUM moved to substitute the name of Hon. THOMAS. W. CLARKE for that of Hon. ERASTUS C. BENEDICT. The motion was carried unanimously. The rest of the County Judiciary ticket was also carried. On motion of General PINCKNEY a Committee consisting of the officers of the General Committee was appointed to notify the nominees. On motion of Mr. H. D. LAPAUGH a Committee of five was appointed to confer with the Committee of Arrangements for the German mass meeting to be held at Cooper Institute on the 27th inst., and coöperate with that Committee in making the meeting a success, after which the Convention adjourned sine die.

The Duty of Good Citizens in Political Matters.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

New-York is said to be the worst governed City on the face of the globe; that the examples of corruption among her officials leads to fraud and dishonesty in the humbler walks of life; that extravagance, immorality, and fast living is poisoning the minds of the rising generation, and that we are fast drifting toward a modern Sodom. To whom is this disgraceful state of things chargeable. I answer that, politically, it is chargeable to the better class of our citizens. No good banker, merchant, or tradesman would engage his employes, without assuring himself of their integrity and capability. He would be regarded as insane were he to select them from among the unprincipled and demoralized, and yet the good citizens of New-York suffer this very insane principle to bear rule in the appointment of their rulers. It is nonsense to say that they have no interest in politics, or to feel that their whole duty is performed in simply depositing their vote. It is as much the duty, and really as much the personal interest, of every good citizen to see that honest men occupy our public places, as it is to see to the character of their individual employes. Let all who desire good government unite in a determined effort at reform, and it will come. Let them spend their time and their money, and work with the energy and spirit which they give to their own more private interests, and New-York will be redeemed from the foul disgrace which now blackens her escutcheon. Surrogate Gideon J. Tucker Declines a Renomination.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

Please allow me space in your columns to say that I respectfully decline, with many thanks, for the partiality shown me—the renomination for the office of Surrogate, tendered to me by several political Conventions. I expect to return to practice my profession as a lawyer on the 1st of January next, and am not a candidate for any office at this election. Very respectfully,

GIDEON J. TUCKER.

The Supreme Court Nominations and the Bar.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

Allow me, as a Republican member of the Bar of New-York, to make a few comments upon your leader of to-day, on the subject of judicial nominations.

You are in the main correct, and your views on the subject are those which must be entertained by all right-thinking men. Your censure of the body to which I belong, though severe, is merited, for I hold that the Bar of New-York has it in its power to control the judicial nominations if it will only exercise it. But the truth is, that the Bar of New-York is a segregation of individualities, without any organization, common rallying point, or machinery of government. It is a head without leaders, without concert of action, without esprit du corps. Attempts have from time to time been made to organize this body, but such attempts have been failures, and must continue to be failures, so long as the leading members of the profession are mixed up with the partisan politics of the day.

But in the matter of the retirement of Judge CLERKE, I think you do the Bar injustice. It is true that he has been an upright Judge, but it is also true that there are good reasons why he should retire. Very likely his retirement is enforced by Tammany on the ground of his uprightness, but that is no reason why the Bar should rally to his support if the members of it are convinced he is unfit. He has reached nearly the Biblical limit of human life, and (I say it with great kindness) his day of usefulness as an active Judge is over. While I honor and revere his integrity, and admire his mild and genial temper, I cannot allow my admiration to warp my judgment and support him for reëlection.

Judge BRADY, who is nominated for his position, is equally honest and is a much abler man, because a much younger and more vigorous man, and I am sure every member of this Bar will hail his advent to the Bench as an unexpected boon.

On some grounds I am sorry that the Ring have nominated Judge BRADY. The faster and deeper the judicial nominations sink, the nearer will be the day when we will have a radical reform. Such a nomination as Judge BRADY's extends the lease of power to the Ring, and makes more distant the day when the people will see that the only remedy for our disgraced Bench is in restoring the appointing power to the Governor and Senate. A NEW-YORK LAWYER.

German Appeal to the German Democrats.

An appeal to the German Democrats has been made by the German Democratic Sigel Campaign Committee of this City, stating that the time had come for them to work for political reform in this State. The German Democrats, the address says, have thus far been considered in this Metropolis only as subordinates of the Tammany Hall organization, and been treated as its satellites. The German population of this City, about 250,000 in number, are paying about one-third of the enormous taxes. Tammany Hall has never cared for improving the condition of the working classes. The "Rings" of the Democratic Party of this City have squandered millions and millions of dollars for hotel bills of City guests, banquets, street openings, contracts of all kinds and swindles of every sort. Democratic politicians by their political influence alone have amassed immense sums of money. They are building brown-stone fronts, owning railroads and opera houses, and spending millions of dollars in debauchery. But none of them have ever created a philanthropic institution benefiting the laborers and their families, who are living in tenement houses and paying the City taxes in the form of high rents and high prices for the necessaries of life. The German Democrats ought to rid themselves of their dependence on Tammany Hall, and join the Republican ranks for the sake of reform in public affairs.

The Ring Nomination for the Supreme Court Judge.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

Your article of to-day in reference to the reëlection of Judge CLERKE, has been read with pleasure by many members of the Bar, who not only admire and esteem Judge CLERKE, but who desire to see the attention of voters directed to the importance of selecting Judges solely because of their fitness for judicial duties, without regard to their private opinions as to politics.

Permit me to suggest another reason for keeping Judge CLERKE where he is: Judge BRADY has now the respect and confidence of the Bar and the community at large in the Court of Common Pleas; he has several years yet to serve there; he will gain nothing personally by being transferred to the Supreme Court, but his election will serve the double purpose of ousting Judge CLERKE and giving Tammany the control of the Court of Common Pleas. If Judge BRADY is elected to the Supreme Court his place in the Common Pleas will be filled by the Governor, and Judge DALY will be left alone to maintain the character of the Court. Both Judges, CLERKE and DALY, are now honorably and faithfully serving the public. Let both be retained where they are. S.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

Unvailing of the Lincoln Statue in Brooklyn.

Great Gathering of Citizens at the Grand Plaza of Prospect Park—Interesting Ceremony—Addresses by Rev. R. S. Storrs, Jr., D.D., and A. A. Low, Esq.

At the grand plaza of Prospect Park, on Flatbush-avenue, yesterday afternoon, not less than fifteen-thousand persons witnessed the unvailing of the statue of ABRAHAM LINCOLN, erected by the dollar-subscription fund raised by citizens without regard to party connection. The statue is of bronze, about nine feet high, and represents the figure of the late President standing, with the folds of a cloak draped about him; his left hand is extended, and holds a manuscript. The head is uncovered. The figure stands upon a base of Scotch granite, and faces the west. On the sides of the pedestal are various emblems and inscriptions. On the east and west, wreaths inclosing the letters "U. S. A." and "U. S. N.;" on the south, an eagle holding a shield, in the centre of which is a female holding an ax, and supported by a bundle of reeds, with the motto "Een draght maakt Maght;" on the north is an eagle with a broken shackle in his talons. The sculptor is Mr. H. K. BROWN. The exercises yesterday were commenced by the Navy Yard band, which performed "Hail Columbia." Among the prominent persons present we noticed Ex-Governor MORGAN, S. B. CHITTENDEN, Mayor KALBFLEISCH, Judge BENEDICT, Rev. Dr. SCHENCK, Rev. Dr. CANFIELD and others.

A. A. LOW, Esq., delivered the opening address, in which he stated that in 1865 the "War Fund Committee of Brooklyn" resolved to signalize the close of their voluntary labors by erecting a monument to the memory of the lamented patriot and martyr by handing down to posterity, in truthful outline, the form and features of the great man who had successfully guided the destinies of our country through its most perilous crisis—thus bringing art to the aid of history in immortalizing the name of ABRAHAM LINCOLN. It was at once determined to raise the necessary funds by a small but general subscription. An appeal, accordingly, was addressed to the people, the people responded gladly, and they were met on this occasion to witness the ceremony of unveiling the statue.

J. P. WALLACE, Esq., on behalf of the War Fund Committee, then formally presented the statue to the Prospect Park Commissioners.

At this point, Mr. H. K. BROWN, the sculptor, unvailed the statue.

J. S. T. STRANAHAN, President of the Park Commissioners, accepted the statue in the name of the Board for the City.

As the covering was withdrawn, a national salute was fired and the band played the tune of "My Country, 'Tis of Thee."

The vast multitude manifested the greatest enthusiasm throughout the ceremony.

The presiding officer read letters from President GRANT and Governor HOFFMAN, expressing regret at their inability to be present.

Rev. Dr. R. S. STORRS, Jr., was then introduced, and made the following address:

ADDRESS OF DR. R. S. STORRS, JR.

FELLOW-CITIZENS: We are assembled to-day to rejoice together in the completion of a work, honorable for the tender and grateful impulse in which it originated; honorable for the cheerful fidelity and zeal with which it has been carried to its present consummation; honorable, we doubt not, for the influence that shall flow from it into the future. More than four years after his death—in a city which he had rarely entered—on heights which his foot had never trodden—by the voluntary contributions of persons, most of whom certainly had never seen him, unless in his coffin, and many of whom had been his earnest political opponents, this statue is erected to ABRAHAM LINCOLN. As a work of art it is its own advocate. As a memorial of him we could not wish it otherwise than it is. It is the first statue, of such material, raised by spontaneous gifts from the people, to commemorate him in the land which he ruled, and among the cities whose streets were shrouded at his death. It is a fit occasion of pleasure and pride to us that the purpose to erect it, which sprang up simultaneously with the tidings of his death, has thus among us been accomplished, and that here henceforth it is to stand; on the summit crest of our expanding and beautiful city; on a spot consecrated, more than ninety years since, by the patriot blood which then so freely and fruitfully fell; overlooking the homes and working places of a million and a half of the American people; looking out upon the bay, through which passes so large and rich a portion of the commerce of the world. Out of his wrestle and wear of soul, and of theirs who wrought with him, through those fierce years which were closed with his death, has come the abundant and wide prosperity which makes this pleasure ground our possession. Because he suffered, we enjoy. He staggered under loads of obligation and of care, that we might afterward live at ease. And if the burdens which he wearily bore, and bore to the end, had been lightened by trick or by treachery in him, there had been for us no solid peace, and no secure pleasure. But there are purposes fulfilled in erecting this statue, which give to this service a moral significance; through relation to which the occasion becomes one of general interest. It is no civic vanity, it is no State pride, it is no narrow enthusiasm for party, which has raised this memorial of one not otherwise related to us than to all the States of the Republic; of one who has so long passed from the earth that his influence over parties has become imperceptible. The people have reared it, because they loved him; because they recognize in him a friend, whose temper and thought were in harmony with their own; whose humor attracted, and whose simplicity charmed, while his power sustained them; who would have been at home in any of their houses, yet to whom they had gladly twice confided unequaled trusts; whose death smote their hearts with a personal grief. He stands as an exponent of what the American life can produce, without foreign assistance. Uncultured as he was, by school or college, his whole school life hardly covering a year, trained only by reflection, by honest labor and by intercourse with men—ancient literatures, renowned universities, the arts and powers of European culture, can claim no part, or only a remote and impalpable part, in what he became. Indeed, nothing can claim to have helped him much, except the text books which are familiar to all, and the atmosphere of freedom and the incentives to labor, which were his only inheritance. Born in the humblest conditions of life, but of a Christian father and mother, stirred in childhood by stories of the perilous border life, the bloody fringes of whose retiring robes had hardly vanished beyond the horizon, reading, when he could read, by the light of pine knots, in the Bible, Esop's Fables and Pilgrim's Progress, coming on only later to BURNS and SHAKESPEARE, talking in clubs, arguing in Courts, writing for newspapers, pleading at last for what he deemed truth before attentive assemblages of men, but never matriculated in any academy, and never master of any language save that which he had learned in childhood—if any man represents, better than others who have been eminent in office among us, the native American faculty and training, this is the man. The country claims him, therefore, as its outgrowth. He represents the influences inherent in its social and political atmosphere and soil; and in the moral life which was in him he shows what a lad, whose Bible was his only preacher, whose Christian mother was his church, may come to be, in a society full of temptation and of sin, when he tries intently to do the duty which is next to his hand, and looks to God for guidance and blessing. But more, even, than this is implied in the fact that this statue has been raised, by the hands of the people, to the name and the fame of ABRAHAM LINCOLN. They who have done this have not merely been moved by love to him, and a grateful remembrance of what he accomplished, for themselves and their children. They have not been impelled by the simple desire to prolong and to distribute, so far as they may, the invigorating force of his personal example. They have done it, also, as challenging for him a permanent place in the history of mankind. They have said, in effect, in erecting this statue, that in their estimation he is one of the men of whom other lands and future ages are sure to speak; and that thus it is well that memorials be made of him as permanent in their structure as nature permits, and as art can attain. The men of other times shall see it. It connects us, as we stand here, with the coming generations. We cannot tell what great institutions shall have risen, and flourished, and turned to decay, before the figure upon this rock shall have yielded itself to rust and rot! And so, in erecting it, we say of him whom it represents that he is one whom the ages to be will speak of still, when we shall have passed not from life alone, but from all human recollection; whose name will be heard on peoples' lips when the city has been changed, when political establishments have been variously modified, and when the written records of our time shall have yielded their place to other annals, in other tongues. We say this; and we are right in saying it. For as long as history continues to be written, some mention must be made in it of this remarkable American people; starting from such obscure beginnings; spreading across such unsurpassed spaces; adventuring on such new and prophetic experiments; achieving so real and wide a welfare; distributing an influence so immense and so vital over the earth. And as long as mention continues to be made of this peculiar American public, so long some notice must certainly be taken of that momentous passage in its experience, when, after a long and silent preparation on either side, the forces that fought against and for the national life came into direct and deadly grapple; when the continent was fenced by the flags and guns of a superb navy for the field of the contest; when armies, unsurpassed in numbers and equipment, sprang as wrestlers into the great arena; when the issue hung balanced in doubt so long, and when the attentive nations of Christendom were awed, yet eager spectators of the scene. Many parts in our history, which have been to us full of interest, will gradually cease to awaken attention, and slip from the notice of all but the most microscopic of students, as time goes on. Many questions which we yet struggle over with strenuous, eager and wide discussion, will seem mere rubbish a century, two centuries, ten centuries hence. New questions arising will have shoved them from their place. A larger philosophy will have solved and dismissed them. But the vast rebellion, and the consequent civil war—which shook the nation to its bases; amid which we sometimes were tempted to feel that Apocalyptic prophecies were realized—that the heavens were on fire, and that mountains were about to slip from their seats into seas of blood—of this grand struggle, so fiercely maintained, so triumphantly ended, history will speak while she speaks of anything that has happened or been done on this side the Atlantic. And as long as history speaks of this, the name of LINCOLN must be prominent in it. The verdict of the future, looking upon LINCOLN, must be this: That in a time of intense excitement, all-pervading, all-arousing, when feeling was passionate, apprehension vivid, the emotions of a continent preternaturally stirred, and when anger easily turned to malignity, and a just indignation became a vindictive thirst for vengeance—he kept his frank and kindly temper, and in the midst of all the jealousies, and the fierce animosities raging around him, was to the end as patient and calm, as ready in sympathy, and as sweet in forgiveness, as if no war storms vexed the land. That in a time of immense opportunity for any dishonest greed and gain, his integrity was as perfect as the lustre in the diamond, as the blue in the sky; that with millions of gold waiting his word for their secret distribution, he touched no penny that was not his, and fell in death as uncorrupt as when he entered on his great office. That in a time of prodigious, unanticipated movements, without precedent or parallel, when forces as wide as the country itself, as vehement as its winds, and as fiery as lightning, were loosened into tremendous collision; when shrewdest schemes were as powerless for the crisis as bulwarks of paper against the whirlwind, when all the foundations seemed out of course, and only Omniscience could forecast the end—he showed an extraordinary sagacity and prudence, committing himself to no peremptory theory, availing himself of all men's counsel; arguing against his own convictions, until he had tested their correctness; following patiently the indications of events; and finally leading the nation which had trusted him, by ways untrod until he trode them, from the precipice to the plain, and out of the thunderous uproar and gloom to the dawn of a bright prophetic day. That when lifted to an eminence in the public confidence, and the popular regard, such as few before him ever occupied, and exercising powers over armies and navies, over Generals and peoples, which almost no statesmen of the world have possessed, he was strangely unexcited by such sudden and surpassing personal distinction; that, intent upon his country's welfare, he thought of himself with a singular humility; and while his name at the end of a commission raised the humble to rank and gave some men command over thousands of others, he was as devoid of ostentation or arrogance as if he had still been a boatman on the river, or the faithful advocate of a few obscure clients. That he never despaired of the future of the Republic, amid whatever disasters or fears; but kept through all his perfect faith, sublime in its simplicity, in the Government which protected the popular rights; in the principles it incorporated; in the advancing civilization which they were to help to build and mould; and in the God who, as he believed, watched over and guarded that sacred and imperial trust. That he was immensely successful in his work; and saw the rebellion, which had reared its haughty front to the sky, which had scoffed at his plans, mocked his power, and heaped fierce ridicule on himself, as thoroughly beaten out of life as if storms of aerolites had smitten its armies, and mountains had fallen and buried them up; that he saw the nation more thoroughly one for the very struggle through which it had passed, and its place among the peoples of the world more distinguished than ever, for the blood it had spilled and the treason it had crushed. That he was identified with the wisest movement of popular liberation which the world had yet seen; and, recognizing his opportunity, hearing the solemn voices of Providence, not disobeying the heavenly vision, was permitted and enabled to loosen the shackles from the limbs of a race, and to lift the millions of slaves in the land to a wholly new level of privilege and of right; making the desert bloom before them; setting up on the horizon, that had been lowering and red, opportunities and hopes which gleam on their eyes like gates of pearl. That he lived to see all this success, and to feel his veins swelling with that rich joy which swept like a current of quickening life throughout the land, and then died a martyr to the cause he had championed; sealing his service with the sacrifice of his life; leaving the nation which he had rescued, in wildest grief; throwing the shadow of a strange sorrow over lands which he had never seen; and seeking the rest denied him here in the presence of Him who had raised him up! What BURKE said of CLIVE, in British India, we may, with only greater emphasis, say of LINCOLN in our own land: "He forded a deep water, on an unknown bottom; but he left a bridge for his successors, over which the lame could hobble and the blind might grope their way." Standing now in front of his monument, recollecting the dangers which were not all buried when his life closed, remembering the duties which we owe to the Republic for which he did so much, so well, and looking forward over the land and into the years which still shall claim our humbler work, let us hear, also, those other words, so solemn and sublime, which fell from him at the service in Gettysburg, six years ago the coming month; and let them fall on us afresh, as if God touched those tranquil lips, and made them vocal once more with counsels:

> "It is for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us, that from the honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion; that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain; that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom; and that the Government of the people, by the people, and for the people, shall not perish from the earth."

Until it perishes, his work in the world shall never fail! Until it perishes, a nobler memorial than we can build shall testify to those who anywhere rejoice in the American example of a popular government and a regulated liberty, of the wisdom and the spirit, and the office for mankind, of ABRAHAM LINCOLN!

Mr. LOW said:

FELLOW-CITIZENS: In the eventful year 1865 the "War Fund Committee of Brooklyn" resolved to signalize the close of their voluntary labors by erecting a monument to the memory of the lamented patriot and martyr by handing down to posterity, in truthful outline, the form and features of the great man who had successfully guided the destinies of our country through its most perilous crisis—thus bringing art to the aid of history in immortalizing the name of ABRAHAM LINCOLN. It was at once determined to raise the necessary funds by a small but general subscription. An appeal, accordingly, was addressed to the people, and the people responded gladly. Circumstances favored the movement. A sentiment of gratitude, tempered by a feeling of the profoundest sorrow, wrought upon the hearts and will of all. LINCOLN was the providential man of our own time; and to perpetuate his memory is our grateful duty; to raise a statue to the honor of his name is a just tribute of affection to the worth and wisdom of the lamented patriot, who died, as he had lived, for his country! We thus manifest our gratitude to God for His gift of a life so precious. Let us hope that, as the waters which supply the fountain by our side, whose source is far distant, are made to flow out and penetrate every house and home in our city, so there will go forth from this spot, hallowed by precious thoughts and memories, an influence that shall animate and strengthen all hearts; that this influence may descend from generation to generation, advancing whatever is worthy of emulation in the past or present. Fellow-citizens, we have come here to-day by invitation of the War Fund Committee, to take part in the consummation of this long-cherished purpose, to celebrate with appropriate ceremonies the unvailing of the statue of our late lamented President, ABRAHAM LINCOLN. The President of the United States, the Governor of the State of New-York, the Mayor and Common Council of our City, Judges of the respective Courts, officers of the army and navy, soldiers and sailors who shared in the perils and in the glories of the war, and all who contributed to the erection of this monument, have been asked to be present to witness the transfer of this gift of the people to the City of their pride, and, on the part of the Park Commissioners, to whose charge it is to be committed, the acceptance of this sacred trust. Permit me, in concluding these introductory remarks, to associate with the rich memories of this hour, and of this occasion, the ever memorable words uttered by Mr. LINCOLN at the close of his second inaugural—the last, I believe, publicly addressed by him to the American people. They will endure longer than bronze, however imperishable it seems. What better inscription can be put upon this monument? "With malice toward none, with charity for all, with firmness in the right, as God gives us to see the right, let us strive to finish the work we are in; to bind up the nation's wounds, to care for him who shall have borne the battle, and for his widow and orphans; to do all which may achieve and cherish a just and lasting peace among ourselves and with all nations."

The hymn, "My Country, 'Tis of Thee," was sung by the audience, led by Mr. F. STEINS and Mr. C. G. LOCKWOOD.

The rain, which fortunately held off throughout the ceremonies, now began to descend, and quickly dispersed the large concourse of citizens.

Departure of Catholic Prelates for Rome.

As the time for opening the Ecumenical Council in Rome approaches, the European steamers are bearing from this port numbers of ecclesiastics of the Catholic Church. The steamship Lafayette, which left on Saturday last for Havre, had on board Bishops DE GOESBRIAND, of Vermont; HENNI, of Wisconsin; RAPPE, of Michigan; QUINLAN, of Alabama; O'HARA, of Pennsylvania; Bishop FARRELL, and Archbishop PURCELL, of Ohio.

Archbishop MCCLOSKEY and his Secretary, Rev. FRANCIS MCNIERNEY, are already in Rome; Bishop LOUGHLIN, of Brooklyn, accompanied by Rev. Dr. GARDNER, will leave to-morrow. The Russia, which sailed Wednesday, took as passengers, Archbishop KENDRICK, Bishop of Iowa, and Right Rev. Dr. MCQUAIDE, Bishop of Rochester. Rev. H. DE REGGE, of Rochester, and Rev. Father HECKER, of this City, were also among the passengers. Father HECKER is bearer of dispatches to Rome, and will represent Bishop ROSECRANS, of Columbus, Ohio, in the coming Council. Archbishop SPALDING, the Metropolitan of the United States, and a number of ecclesiastics sailed also Wednesday from Baltimore. Rev. Father QUINN, of St. Peter's, Barclay-street, sailed in the Tripoli yesterday.

THE BARON DE REVIERE.

Motion to Discharge the Order of Arrest—The Baron's Account of Himself—His Speculations in Guns and Guano.

This case, in which HELENE C. STILLE is plaintiff, and Baron HENRI DE REVIERE is defendant, came up for hearing yesterday before Judge JONES, of the Superior Court, on a motion on behalf of defendant to discharge the order of arrest under which the defendant had given bail. Mr. JAMES HENDERSON, on behalf of the defendant, took the preliminary objection that the bond filed by plaintiff was imperfect and void, in that the bondsman had not sworn to the same. This exception was overruled on the ground that the omission was a mere informality which might be cured on notice to the bondsman to justify. Mr. HENDERSON also read an affidavit showing that no such person as that named in the bond lived at the address given therein, and then proceeded to read the affidavit of the defendant in which he gives the history of his movements in France at the time when the plaintiff swore he was fleeing from that country. He also gives, at great length and with much particularity, his business transactions during the time the plaintiff charges him with being a chevalier d'industrie and living on the proceeds of her property. The substance of the defendant's affidavits, used on the motion and not heretofore published, is as follows:

After denying absolutely all the allegations contained in the affidavit of the plaintiff, on which the order of arrest was granted, he goes on to swear that he left Madrid in May, 1865, and with his family proceeded to Seville and Cadiz, in Spain, and from thence he went to Lisbon, in Portugal, where he arrived in June, 1865, and remained to Jan. 13, 1866, then went to Bordeaux, where he arrived Jan. 19, 1866, as will appear by his passport from the French Minister at Lisbon, countersigned by the authorities at Bordeaux. In the month of September, 1868, he arrived in New-York with his family, consisting of his wife and two children, two men servants and three maid servants, and put up at the New-York Hotel; from there he went to the Pavilion Hotel on Staten Island. In the month of October following he hired the house No. 4 West Fourteenth-street, in this City, where he left his family and went to Chili. On his return from Chili in January last he removed his family to the Clarendon Hotel, there remaining until he left for Paris in February, arriving there in the beginning of March last, and there remained until September, when he returned to this City with his family and took up his residence at the New-York Hotel, where he still resides with his family, now consisting of his wife, two children and two maid servants. While residing at the Clarendon Hotel in the month of February last the plaintiff wrote several letters to him asking for money, and threatening to blackmail him unless he complied with her request; but he invariably returned her letters by the bearers thereof unanswered.

In September last the plaintiff wrote him another note asking for $500 to pay a doctor's bill, which letter he returned to her by the bearer, with an answer thereon in French, written in pencil, that he would have her handed over to the Police in case she wrote him again.

In relation to his pecuniary responsibility, the defendant further swears that, in 1861 he had, and still has, an office in Paris, at No. 68 Rue de la Victoire, as Government contractor for artillery and ships of war. In the years 1863 and 1864 he contracted with Mr. JAMES BULLOCK, of Liverpool, for the building of two iron-clads and four steam corvettes, for the artillery of which and for other artillery to the gross amount of 12,000,000 francs. He acted as agent and partner of Messrs. L. ARMAN, of Bordeaux, and VOUEZ, of Nantes, and received for his share in the profits 1,100,000 francs. At the same time he sold to the Danish Government forty guns and their ammunition, and his commission on the sale was 45,000 francs. In the year 1864 he sold the Prussian Government an iron-clad steamer, and the two steam corvettes, Victoria and Augusta, for the sum of 7,500,000 francs, for account of Mr. L. ARMAN, for which he received a commission of five per cent., amounting to 375,000 francs. In the meantime he sold to Greece, to the Danubian Principalities, to the Tunisian Government, to the Brazilian Government and to the Paraguayan Government several complete batteries of artillery, and made over 200,000 francs on these sales, so that in the year 1865 his personal fortune was, over and above all his debts and liabilities, at least one million and a half of francs, or $300,000 in gold. In 1866 he contracted for Mr. L. ARMAN for the construction of two iron-clad steamers, and for the putting up in Chili, South America, of a Government artillery factory, for the sum of £238,000 sterling, on which he received a commission of five per cent., amounting to $59,500 in gold. He also contracted with the Government of Chili and Bolivia for the purchase of one million and a half tons of guano from the Mejillionas deposit, and received as commission therefor $100,000 in gold, besides 1,000 shares of the stock of the Guano Company. Subsequently he purchased from said Guano Company the whole of said million and a half tons of guano, and sold his interest in the same to HENRI MEIGGS, Esq., of Lima, for the sum of $1,000,000 in gold, to be paid as the extraction of the guano goes on at the rate of 66 cents per ton, and he still owns two-thirds of the copper mines of GANA & CO., in Mejillonas, Bolivia. The title of Baron he claims to be hereditary in his family and justly belonging to him, he being the oldest son of Baron WILLIAM ARNOUX DE RIVIERE, Conseiller-General of the Department of the Loire, Inferieure of the Departue, in the Empire of France, who owns landed property in said department to the value of 2,000,000 francs and upward, consisting of the family estate at Verades and city property in the town of Nantes; and that the record of his family title may be found in the archives of the City of Rennes, Province of Brittany, in the Empire of France. He further adds that a year ago he brought over from France plate, &c., sufficient to furnish a house which he intends to purchase in this City, and become a permanent resident thereof; and that he had never received any property whatever from his wife, Miss BLOUNT, or her family, but, on the contrary, had given her all the property she has.

Additional affidavits were also read from CATHARINE DEMOUD, who lived with the plaintiff as nurse, and in which she sets forth in substance the same allegations of lewdness on the part of plaintiff, and her cohabitation with various individuals in this City, as has been stated in previous affidavits already published.

The only papers used in opposition to the motion was the examination of the plaintiff taken before the referee, and already published.

The Court took the papers and reserved its decision.

DISCOUNTING PREMIUM NOTES.

The National Bank of the Commonwealth vs. Chas. L. Recknagel.—This action was brought on a premium-subscription note of $5,000, which was given to the defendant by the Washington Marine Insurance Company. The plaintiff claimed that the note was discounted for value, in good faith and before maturity. It appeared in evidence that after the indorsement by the President, the money was drawn on his private account and used for individual purposes. The Court instructed the jury that the only question for them to consider was as to the good faith of the bank in discounting the note. The jury rendered a verdict for plaintiff for $5,808 44.

For plaintiff, Mr. Doolittle; for defendant, Mr. Da Costa.

THE VALUE OF A RIGHT HAND.

Wm. Meier vs. Henry S. Fearing, Francis Skiddy and Sheppard Gandy.—In this case, which was an action brought by plaintiff against the defendants, to recover the sum of $10,000 damages for the loss of his right hand, by the explosion of a gun on board of the yacht Rambler, on the 4th of July, 1865, the jury, after a long deliberation came into Court with a verdict of $1,200 damages for plaintiff. To this amount the Court, on motion granted an allowance of five per cent. The jurors were for a long time divided in opinion. Some of them were for giving the defendants a verdict, others were for very slight damages to plaintiff, and one juror insisted on allowing $5,000.

For plaintiff Mr. Darlington; for defendants Messrs. Bliss and Cadwallader.

THE STATE LIEN LAW ON VESSELS.

Daniel Murphy vs. Wm. A. Edey et al., Peter Ward et al. vs. Wm. A. Edey et al.—Both these cases were brought to enforce liens on vessels. In the first suit the plaintiff was a subcontractor on work for the C. C. Edey. It appeared, however, that the contractor had not completed his contract, and the owners had to come in and complete. Judge INGRAHAM says: In this case the contract with the defendant was not performed, and no claim would be a lien against the vessel unless the same was completed under the contract.

The second suit was for work done on the Jeannie at Newburg. The lien was not placed on the vessel till after twelve days after she had left Newburg. She had, however, gone no further than New-York. The law limits the placing of liens to twelve days after the vessel leaves the port. The plaintiff claimed that Newburg was but a part of the port of New-York, not being a port of entry. The defendants argued that "port" in the act merely meant place.

Judge INGRAHAM decides: "I think the vessel left the port within the meaning of the act, and the lien ceased."

Complaint in each case dismissed.

Mr. Hayward for plaintiffs; D. McMahon for defendants.

SUPREME COURT—CIRCUIT.

Before Justice Sutherland.

LIABILITY AS PARTNER.

National Shoe and Leather Bank vs. Curtis et al.—This is an action against J. Halsey Curtis, Amy C. Curtis and Alfred L. Curtis, on a note for $5,000 indorsed by Joseph Curtis, on which the indorser had paid a portion. The plaintiffs claimed that all the defendants were partners in the general auction business, carried on in the name of Curtis & Co. The firm failed in 1867 for about $100,000. The action was defended by Alfred L. Curtis only, on the ground that he was not a partner in the firm. That the firm was formed by regular articles of copartnership, between J. Halsey Curtis, at that time 19, and Amy C. Curtis, wife of his brother William, and that he and William were mere employes of the firm. Plaintiffs contended that this was fraudulent on its face, and that Alfred L. had represented himself to the officers of the bank as a member of the firm. The Court charged that if, upon all the facts of the case, they believed that the articles of copartnership were intended for a fraudulent purpose, and that Alfred L. Curtis was a partner in fact, plaintiffs were entitled to a judgment against him.

The jury found a verdict for the plaintiff against all the defendants for the full amount claimed, $2,954.

R. W. Van Pelt and Thomas Cary for plaintiffs; Miller, Peet & Opdyke for defendant.

SUPERIOR COURT—TRIAL TERM—PART I.—OCT. 21.

Before Chief Justice Barbour and a Jury.

FIRE INSURANCE—OVERESTIMATE.

Ella Wehrkamp vs. The Germania Fire Insurance Company.—The plaintiff kept a billiard saloon, &c., at No. 141 Grand-street, in this City, which, with the property therein contained, together with clothing, carpets, pictures, ornaments, &c., in her dwelling apartments, was insured in defendants' Company for $3,000. About a year ago the property was partially destroyed by fire to the extent, as the plaintiff alleged, of the full amount of the policy.

The claim was resisted on the ground that the articles named in the schedule of loss were neither as numerous or valuable as therein stated. On these points issue was joined, and much conflicting testimony was produced on both sides. The jury reconciled differences by giving the plaintiff a verdict for $1,871 69.

THURSDAY, Oct. 21—P. M.

A further advance in Bills on London to 109½ ℘ cent. for 60 days, and 109¾@110 ℘ cent. short sight, imparted some firmness to the Gold market, and caused the sales in the forenoon to range 130¼@130⅝ ℘ cent. The supply of Gold in the market may be considered ample for the demands of the remainder of the month. The prospective sales of the Treasury are $1,000,000 to-morrow, Oct. 22; $1,000,000 on Tuesday, Oct. 26, and $1,000,000 on Friday of next week, Oct. 29. After the sales, without the official announcement of the sales in November, the disbursements of Gold interest, week after next, will afford a liberal supply, if Exchange should reach the Specie shipping point.

The Public Funds were weaker by ⅛@⅜ ℘ cent. than on yesterday, owing to the repeated liberal offers to the Sinking Fund and the award of the whole $1,000,000 advertised for to-day at 115.20 ℘ cent., and accrued Gold Interest, to Messrs. FISK & HATCH. The subsequent sales of 1867 in the open market were at 117⅝@117¾ ℘ cent. A ridiculous rumor was started about 12 o'clock that the Treasury would make no Sinking Fund purchases through the month of November. There was not the semblance of authority for such a statement, and we believe it to be directly the reverse of the truth. Another purchase of $2,000,000 will be made on Wednesday of next week, Oct. 27.

Money was in fair supply to-day at 7 ℘ cent. to the Brokers, with exceptions at 6 ℘ cent. A few of the large Banks are liberal lenders at 7 ℘ cent., but, as a rule, the Brokers rely more upon outside offerings than upon their Banks.

The Stock Exchange was somewhat feverish on the Railway list this forenoon. The fluctuations from hour to hour were 1½@2 ℘ cent. on New-York Central and 1½@2½ ℘ cent. on Lake Shore. The latter sold up to 95 and down to 92½ ℘ cent. The other Western lines were irregular, some animation being shown on Northwest Common, while other descriptions were comparatively dull. There has been a demand for Reading for a day or two past on the reported large net earnings of the Company on the Coal traffic. There are, no doubt, substantial grounds for this advance, and the probability is that in a general and earnest speculative movement in Stocks, such as we have had in former seasons, Reading would have gone up 10@15 ℘ cent. in place of 2@3 ℘ cent. on the announcement of the unprecedented net earnings of the Road for the present month and past three months from the Coal trade.

At the second call the general market was heavy and so continued until about 3 o'clock, when it became strong. Pacific Mail participated in the rise late in the afternoon, on reports that negotiations were pending between that Company and the Panama Railroad, looking to a more favorable adjustment of rates on both passenger and freight traffic. At the close of the Long Room the market was dull and steady on the general list and firm on Pacific Mail, Lake Shore and Reading. The closing quotations compare as follows with those at the corresponding time yesterday:

NEWS OF THE DAY.

EUROPE.

Madrid dispatches report the departure of 3,000 troops on Wednesday for Havana. Captain-General De Rodas has informed the Home Government that the Cubans and the insurgents in Spain have all along been acting in concert. The Republican leaders captured in arms are to be shot, and several have already been executed. The life of the leader of the Seville revolt has been asked for by the Duke of Montpensier. The Cortes has resumed its sessions, and on Wednesday passed a resolution thanking the army for subduing the rebellion. Prim has publicly declared that he is a monarchist, in answer to those who doubt his political faith.

The release of the imprisoned Fenians, it has been decided by the English Government, "would be contrary to its duty as a guardian of the public security and peace," and Mr. Gladstone has so written the President of the Limerick Amnesty Association.

Napoleon is to return to Paris on the 25th inst., and the French Ministers on the 24th. The Ministerial programme, it is said, will soon be made public. Twenty-seven Deputies sustain the Opposition manifesto, and the voters of Paris are reported to indorse it. Marshal Bazaine has taken command of the Imperial Guard.

The French National Guard, it is reported, is to be reorganized.

Bullion in the Bank of England decreased £292,000 during the past week, and increased 6,000,000 of francs in the Bank of France in the same period.

The arrival of the Crown Prince of Prussia at Vienna, Austria, is announced, and the prospect of peace between the two countries now seems bright.

It is generally rumored that the Emperor of Austria and Victor Emmanuel are soon to have an interview.

The Ex-King and Queen of Naples are in Rome.

Ninety-six recruits for the Papal army have arrived in Rome from Canada.

JAPAN AND CHINA.

The latest Japanese advices are to the effect that the Duke of Edinburgh had been well received. Sept. 1 he was the guest of the Mikado at Yeddo. He left on the 16th for China, and is to visit Pekin as a private individual, the Emperor having refused a State reception. An attempt to assassinate the British Minister at Yeddo had been frustrated. Prince Todo, a powerful Daimio, and an ally of the Tycoon, had been assassinated for some political differences; and a quarrel between two other Princes, it was feared, would provoke a war. The Daimios had voted in Parliament to surrender their name and all their property to the Emperor, and receive from him instead honorary titles and support.

Chinese advices to the 18th ult. are that a treaty had been concluded between China and Austria, and the Austrian Embassy had departed, Sept. 24, for Japan, for the same purpose. The Pekin Press had found fault with the refusal of Prince Kung to receive the Duke of Edinburgh. The Oriental Hotel at Macao had been burned. By a rice junk explosion at Swartow twenty Chinamen had been killed and fifty wounded. The Roman Catholic Church at Tsunyefoo had been destroyed by the natives, and Rev. J. Williamson, late of the English Missionary Society, had been murdered, Aug. 26, by Chinese robbers near Tientzin.

GENERAL.

The financial statement of the Boston Peace Jubilee has at last appeared. The receipts are put down at $290,270 33, and the expenses $283,388 29, leaving a balance of $6,882 48, which has been given to Mr. Gilmore. This sum, in addition to that received from the benefit concert tendered him, amounts to $[illegible]. Nothing is said about the "widows and orphans of the soldiers who fell in the rebellion."

In the Tennessee Legislature yesterday four ballots were taken for United States Senator, the last of which stood Johnson 45, Etheridge 41, and the rest scattering. Johnson's friends are confident of his success, as he now lacks but seven votes to be elected.

The President and the Gold Ring.

Undismayed by previous discomfitures, the organs of the Gold Ring have renewed their attempts to identify the President with the recent transactions of Fisk and Gould. From one infamy they have descended to another. To sustain their position they now publish what purports to be a letter, or an extract from a letter, addressed by Mrs. Grant to Mr. Corbin, in which General Grant is represented as "very much annoyed" at Corbin's speculations; "he tries not to be influenced by them, but fears he is."

Of the appropriation of a lady's private letter—supposing it to be genuine—for the purpose of casting discredit upon her husband, nothing need be said. The men who formed the gold-gambling conspiracy are not likely to be scrupulous in the choice of means for the attainment of their ends. They who laid traps at street corners that they might be seen speaking to the President, would not hesitate to purloin a private letter if its possession were necessary for their purpose.

But we brand the letter and the extract from the letter as forgeries. No such letter as that which the Gold Ring gave to the public yesterday was ever written by Mrs. Grant. Not a line ever proceeded from that lady or from the President, in any manner recognizing or directing gold or any other speculations. Any letter which is alleged to have been written by either, of the nature of that which has been published, is a base and wicked fraud. It is a forgery, and one in perfect keeping with other measures resorted to by the gold conspirators.

Whether Mr. Corbin has at any time pretended to be in receipt of special advices in regard to his speculations, from the President or from Mrs. Grant, we cannot undertake to say. He is evidently a weak man, and has played a very foolish part. In one way or another, he has been associated with the Erie gang, and has been an instrument in their hands. For what he may have said or done, neither General nor Mrs. Grant is accountable. He must bear the consequences of his folly, and must divide with his speculative associates the responsibility for the scandal which has been cast upon the President and his household.

The essential fact in the controversy, and that which no amount of details can be allowed to keep out of sight, is the total absence of all connection between the President and the gold speculation. Whether Corbin or Butterfield is better or worse than he professes to be, is a small matter in the estimation of the public. That which concerns the country in this connection is the conduct of its President. And since it has been afresh impugned, we assert most positively, as we asserted in the first instance, that at no time, in no way, has General Grant, or Mrs. Grant, had the remotest interest in any speculative transaction, whether relating to gold or bonds. Neither with Corbin nor Fisk, neither with Butterfield nor Gould, have they held correspondence touching the late gold conspiracy; and any allegation to the contrary is unqualifiedly false.

Taxation and the Debt.

The cry for a reduction of taxes is echoed on all sides. There are those who advocate a continuance of the present fiscal system, professedly with a view to a more rapid reduction of the debt; but the fact that the same journals champion the tariff, with all its enormities, suggests the possible presence of other motives. If the necessity for an income greatly in excess of current expenditures be conceded, a point is gained which the supporters of monopoly are shrewd enough to use.

The general course of the Administration affords an assurance that in the formation of its policy on fiscal and financial questions the call of the country for relief will not be disregarded. The last six months have given ample pledges for the future. Reform is only begun, not ended. The large reductions already made in every branch of the Government, the efficiency which has been imparted to the revenue service, and the plans for further retrenchment and yet increased efficiency which are known to be in progress, make certain the purpose of the President to facilitate a large diminution of the public burdens. The Administration is doing all that can be done to render reduction of taxes feasible. It is endeavoring to bring down the cost of carrying on the Government to a minimum, and to push the productiveness of the present sources of revenue to a maximum. The duty of disposing definitely of the surplus—of saying what proportion shall continue available for the redemption of bonds, and what proportion shall be the basis of fiscal reductions, will devolve upon Congress. On these subjects there can be no doubt that both the President and Mr. Boutwell will be prepared with specific suggestions.

The success which has thus far attended Mr. Boutwell's management of the debt is good ground to start from. He essayed an experiment, and it has been successful. Objections were urged against it at the outset, and opinions may still honestly differ with regard to some features of his plan. But it has accomplished the object he had in view: it has strengthened public confidence at home and abroad in the determination and ability of the Government to maintain untarnished the nation's credit. It has performed wonders in the redemption of debt, has saved some millions in the shape of interest, and has so enhanced the value of the Government securities as to inspire fresh faith in the practicability of some scheme for funding the bonded debt at a lower rate of interest.

It is safe to assume that this is the initial point in the future of the Treasury policy. And it is in exact conformity with the course indicated by the Chicago Convention. For the possibility of funding the debt in the manner proposed depends upon the development of confidence in the sanctity of the national obligations; while the result of the process will be a very large annual saving in the matter of interest. Mr. Boutwell's justification consists in the fact that his measures have materially appreciated the market value of the bonds, and so have prepared the way for funding; and at the same time have afforded a not inconsiderable relief to the people.

There are, no doubt, obstacles to funding, the chief of which is the continued inconvertibility of the currency. Unless compulsion were resorted to, there would seem to be no reason for anticipating the voluntary surrender of a six per cent. bond in exchange for a four per cent. And as it is quite certain that a Government which recognizes the inviolability of its monetary obligations will not employ penalties to aid its policy, we can conceive of its inability to substitute a lower for a higher rate of interest until it is in a condition to propose redemption at par, in gold, as the alternative of non-conversion. The appreciation of the value of the bonds, as now going on, tends in a certain degree to produce the same result. The bonds are becoming scarcer in the market, and therefore higher in price; and it may be that new investors will appear willing to facilitate the plans of the Treasury with reference to an issue of four per cents. These aspects of the question cannot escape the attention of the Secretary of the Treasury; and their thorough consideration must precede any action by Congress. In truth, the financial capacity of both the Secretary and Congress will be tested by the manner in which the funding process is provided for, and the success with which it is attended. There may be no insuperable difficulty. Considering the resources of the country, the spirit manifested by its people, and the integrity displayed by the Government, the United States should now be able to negotiate its securities on terms at least as good as those obtained by the most favored nation in Europe.

This done, the Republican Party will have solved a difficult financial problem in a manner eminently profitable to the people, and will be able to concentrate its attention upon the much-needed work of fiscal reform. The ability to fund the debt will be proof of reëstablished confidence; and thenceforward the reduction of taxes will be a duty which can be no longer delayed.

Assuming, as we fairly may, that, at its next session, Congress will devise a scheme for the management of the debt, and that under Mr. Boutwell's guidance the scheme will commend itself to capitalists, native and foreign, the probability is that the next fiscal year (1870-71) will witness a reduction of taxation to the extent of one hundred millions. This may seem a large estimate, but it is not unreasonable, in view of the economy which the Administration is everywhere practicing, and the increased integrity which it is introducing into the Revenue Department. One hundred millions, then, may be taken to be the amount of the relief which the taxpayers may hope for, after the next session, as a consequence of the Republican policy and the efforts of General Grant's Administration.

The relief which will be afforded by this reduction will depend somewhat upon the ability and impartiality with which Congress performs the work of revision. If undertaken in good faith, with no other object than such a mitigation of burdens that the greatest number possible shall experience benefit, the labor will be comparatively easy. We may then anticipate a reconstruction of the tariff on a revenue basis, and a material simplification of internal taxation. On the other hand, if Congress be diverted from the straight path by the entreaties or threats of combined monopolies—if the relief that shall be available be narrowed down and perverted in obedience to the selfish clamor of special interests—a blunder will be committed for which no party can afford to make itself responsible. The character and conduct of the Administration is a guarantee of fair play in this respect which is meanwhile satisfactory. A record which tells of expenditures and debt both reduced, and which promises, in its first fiscal year, to realize a surplus not less than eighty millions, is well calculated to foster public confidence.

The Supreme Court Judgeship.

Referring to our article of yesterday on the Tammany nomination for the Supreme Court Judge, a correspondent suggests an explanation which adds to the infamy of the affair. Judge Brady, he remarks, has several years yet to serve in the Court of Common Pleas, where he has won respect and confidence by the faithful discharge of arduous duties. Personally, therefore, he has nothing to gain by the proposed transfer to the Supreme Court. But the transfer, besides depriving the profession and the public of the services of Judge Clerke, will occasion a vacancy in the Common Pleas, which Tammany will be at liberty to fill.

There was a time when the filling of a vacant Judgeship in that Court might have been left to Governor Hoffman without apprehending mischief from his action. That time is past. Governor Hoffman is now recognized as the creature of Tammany—the instrument ever ready to do its will. By giving effect to the Erie bill he played the game of the Ring, and strengthened the hands of those who are engaged in prostituting judicial functions to the base uses of gamblers and conspirators. That proceeding destroyed the confidence previously reposed in him, and rendered him conspicuous as the servant of Tammany in its most unscrupulous work. To intrust him with the appointment of a Judge to fill the position now occupied by Judge Brady will be to insure the presence there of Tammany's tool, and to leave Judge Daly to maintain the character of the Court single-handed.

The plot is as cunning as it is disgraceful. It does, indeed, secure the continued services of Judge Brady, but those services are already available; while the incorruptible Judge Clerke will be ousted from the Bench of one Court, to make room for Governor Hoffman's nominee in another. Thus Tammany lessens by one the number of honest Judges, and increases by one the number of those who degrade the Bench and make law a mere mockery of justice.

Will Judge Brady lend himself to this infamous scheme? Will he permit himself to be transferred from one Court to another simply that there may be one honest Judge less and one more of those who look to Tammany for orders?

The West and the South.

From the doings of the Louisville Convention, some Southern journalists are deriving strange lessons. From things commercial they pass to things political. Business intercourse they make a foundation for a partisan compact, with a resuscitated Democracy as its ultimate result. "Ohio will range herself alongside of the South," says an enthusiastic Georgian, "with Illinois, Indiana and the other great Western States, bound to us by the ties of trade and a common interest." What the alliance will end in, the same oracle explains: "A Democracy more invincible and more perfect masters of the situation than the party have ever been before, even in the days of Andrew Jackson."

Dreams of this sort have been revealed before now by the very men who exult over the prospect of West and South united for political purposes. "The ties of trade and a common interest" were relied upon in 1860 to make England the ally of the Confederacy. "The English manufacturers," it was said, "could not live without the cotton-growing States, and to their just influence the English Government must yield." A brief experience dispelled that delusion. And though throughout the war England played fast and loose, her rulers saw other ties and other interests than those of which the South was the centre.

The West, too, was claimed by the South as its natural ally. Then, as now, "ties of trade" and "a common interest" were phrases with which Southern people cheated themselves into a belief that the West would sooner or later help them. The mistake did not last long. The West never for a moment hesitated. It was a unit for the Union. And it contributed more freely than any other part of the country to the power which crushed the rebellion. "Ties of trade" were as nothing when a patriotic duty was to be performed.

So it will be still. The West is the growing power on this continent, and perhaps these Northern seaboard States have not as yet begun to realize the import of its growth. The South, on the contrary, cultivates it assiduously. The various commercial conventions exhibit West and South in intimate fellowship. They have common ends to serve, and common enterprises in view for their promotion. To this extent the "ties of trade" have a certain significance. They foreshadow changes in the current of trade which the people of this section cannot afford to wholly disregard.

But, politically considered, the West is more likely to control the South than to be controlled by it. On fiscal and financial questions they are probably not far apart. When, however, Georgia Democrats take ground against the Union policy which the West and North, united, shaped and sustain, they commit an egregious blunder. With the Democracy which made war upon the Union, and now makes war upon reconstruction, the West holds no fellowship. It decides in matters of that nature without pausing to estimate the value of "ties of trade." It is devoted to the Union, and to the Republican Party as the party of the Union. Ohio and Iowa have just pronounced their verdict, and its tenor is unmistakable. Could Indiana and Illinois be heard from, their judgment would be the same. The West has a "common interest" with the industry and commerce of the South, but none with its Democracy.

European Conservatives and American Democrats.

The most noticeable fact in European politics at the present moment is the preponderating influence of liberal ideas and the rapid advance of liberal reforms. In France, if the Emperor has a policy at all, it is one in which the concession of popular rights, hitherto withheld, must have a conspicuous place, and in which the selection of advisers from the party of progress is an inevitable necessity. In Prussia Count Bismarck stands alike at the head of the great liberal movement of Germany, and possesses undisputed sway in the councils of the sovereign. Austria has cast off the old incubus of priestly intolerance and traditional conservatism, and under the guidance of her great Saxon Premier, has entered on a new career of enlightened policy and domestic reform which bids fair to restore her ancient prestige, and more than her ancient prosperity. In England the Liberal Party is as compact and as unassailable as ever, possessing everything which their Conservative opponents want, a leader, an organization and a policy. Fresh from the great struggle on the Irish Church question, they are ready to grapple undismayed with the no less momentous issues which await them on the settlement of Irish land tenure and national education.

The Conservatives of Europe must feel a sad want of faith in the present, and must entertain a depressing lack of hope for the future. The world is going all too fast for them, and with old systems crumbling away under their feet it is little wonder if their ideas are chaotic and their faculties somewhat unhinged. Thomas De Quincey gives somewhere a learned disquisition upon the essential duality of human opinion, and likens the conservative instinct to the centripetal, the liberal to the centrifugal force, by the proper adjustment of which the great mechanism of State is kept revolving. If the Opium Eater were now to apply his test to the political systems of Europe, we fear he would conclude that a great many of the bodies therein compressed were rushing off into infinite space on a sort of cometary voyage of destruction and terror.

Our American counterpart of the conservative drag upon the car of national progress seems to be rapidly subsiding into the same anomalous position as its corresponding force in Europe. In default of a policy of its own, the Democratic Party has assumed the Mephistophelian attitude of "the spirit that perpetually denies." Apparently incapable of originating any movement which can be called constructive or progressive, it has identified itself with undoing the results of past labor, and unsettling the basis of future advancement. But, as Judge Pierrepont remarked the other evening, though politicians and their systems grow old, the nation is fresh and young, and that party which is most in sympathy with its healthy and vigorous life will have its support and confidence. This country has shown the monarchies of Europe the path of liberal reform, and still aspires to lead the world in the same direction. She has not yet abrogated her high function, nor sunk to the level of a loiterer on the highway of progress, and the proof is that the Democratic Party is merely an obstructive and disorganizing force in her politics—not a potent influence in controlling its policy.

There is yet one more chance for people who have never visited Jerome Park to enjoy a good day's amusement. On Saturday there will not only be some sharp contests between first-rate horses, but an absolute novelty will be introduced, and one that ought to be alone sufficient to tempt thousands of spectators to the Park. People who do not care to see an ordinary race may find their blood quickened into activity at the thought of witnessing a steeple chase, with all the risks and hazards which generally accompany that sport. We do not anticipate that the casualties in the steeple chase on Saturday will be so numerous as have occurred on similar occasions in Ireland and elsewhere, but the race cannot be otherwise than full of excitement and interest, and as the entries are favorable, and the general programme for the day a very liberal one, there is every probability that Saturday's meeting will be the most attractive of the season. The course, we may repeat, is easily accessible by rail or road, and it can never be seen to greater advantage than in weather such as we have lately enjoyed, and with crowds of gaily-dressed ladies to impart additional brilliancy to the scene.

A powerful section of Irish citizens here recently protested against the Democratic nominations and policy. Now the German Democrats are loud in expressions of dissatisfaction. To estrange both classes is an act of ingenuity which the Democratic managers can scarcely hope to equal very often. The leading Democratic journal of the Germans in this City objects to the candidate for Supervisor, and also to one of the nominations for the Bench. It thinks that reform is "essential to the administration of justice on our Bench." The majority of people are of the same opinion, but the Democratic managers have not thought it necessary to give effect to it in their policy. The New-York Staats Zeitung is, therefore, in advance of its party. We trust, however, that it will succeed in influencing the large body of its readers in favor of judicial purity. It would be a work to render the present year memorable, if a fatal blow could be struck at the iniquitous traffic in Judges and justice. The community would be relieved from the gravest scandal that ever rested upon it, and we are glad to see our German contemporary determined to do its part in the good work.

Some one has written a book on Monarchs Retired from Business. He might add to it an affecting chapter on diplomatists out of employment. Their lot is a hard one. Nothing is so unpleasant as to be a great man one day and a nobody the next. If the country provided an asylum for these companions in misery they might at least sometimes heave a friendly sigh together, and mourn over the happiness which, in the words of the celebrated poet, Bunn, was "too beautiful to last." But this very necessary institution does not exist, and a Californian contemporary charges the Government with general cruelty toward its foreign representatives. It ought not to change them so often, it thinks, and in part we agree with the remark. Many excellent men are recalled from posts which they have filled creditably only to make room for time-servers and jobbers. Then, again, it is said that we do not pay our Ministers as they ought to be paid. Perhaps not—but if some get too little, others get more than they are worth. The general average is pretty fair. And we all know that a foreign Minister sometimes gets so many dinners to eat that it may almost be said his country is the means of finding him in board as well as wages.

The exodus of Roman Catholic Bishops still goes on. During this week a considerable number of well-known prelates from different parts of the country have sailed from this port. It is probable that Father Hyacinthe himself will be glad to join in this pious pilgrimage to Rome if his present persecution lasts much longer. The cell "Little Ease," the rack, the thumbscrew, the nail twister could not "wring the withers" more than the professional "interviewer." He is the scourge of modern life, for he respects no privacy, and considers nothing unfair or dishonorable which enables him to circumvent his victim. He invents conversations, and is quite impervious to rebuke. When Mr. Dickens said years ago that the newspapers waylaid strangers in this manner, everybody cried out, "It is a calumny." And yet how has Father Hyacinthe been treated? Poor man!—most cordially will he soon wish himself back in the quiet and seclusion of a monastery. Imagine what his ideas of a "gentleman of the Press" will be all the rest of his life. Probably he never saw one till he came here, and he cannot be particularly anxious to see one again. Journalists are the men to keep up the dignity of their "profession." If the Pope is offended with the worthy Friar, let him look at the purgatory he has jumped into in New-York, and pity the misfortunes of his wayward son.

At this season of the year it is well to look to one's steps in walking along the streets. We cast out no insinuations against the paving. Everybody expects to trip up occasionally on the heavy flags which are pitched down on the sidewalk, and left to find their own level. But the approach of cold weather heralds in a new peril. The sidewalk is suddenly studded with big holes, down which men shovel coals at their leisure. If a person stumbles into one of these pits and breaks his leg, the only response he will evoke is an anathema on his eyes from the coal man, who has probably been refreshing himself with a drink at the nearest bar. His extremities are all placed in jeopardy, for the "limbs" are too often associated with the "eyes." In the dusk of evening it is not always easy to descry the black hole in the path. One may find oneself in a man's coal cellar, without meaning it, in the twinkling of an eye. It is unpleasant to enter anybody's house for the first time by the medium of his coal hole. Pedestrians are apt to disappear through the pavement now as the travelers dropped through the bridge in the "Vision of Mirza," or as the funny man goes through a trap-door in a farce. We are glad to notice that a citizen who met with an accident of this kind has just recovered damages in the Superior Court. He sued the owner of the house before which the coal hole was left open, and was awarded $350 by way of compensation. If actions at law for negligence were brought a little more frequently there would be fewer bones broken.

No doubt the belief of New-York—at least of a great majority of its people—is that man is a soldier and life is a fight, or, at any rate, something of which peril is a natural and necessary ingredient, and that, in a Christian community, one should largely rely on Providence. Yesterday, in Chatham-street, a man from the country, or the suburbs, came out of a hat store very drunk and carefully supported to his two-horse wagon by a pair of shopmen. He was helped with effort to the seat and his reins, when a by-stander observed that the man was in danger of his life. "Never mind him," said one of the helpers, cheerfully, "he'll soon tumble back into the wagon, and the horses will know their own way home!" This little incident carries its own tragi-comic moral, which every reader will be able to extract for himself.

The shipbuilders and merchants of Boston think pretty much the same as those of New-York respecting the decline of the American marine and the best way of restoring it. Messrs. Derby, Curtis, Harrison Loring and McKay are in favor of removing the duties on materials. Mr. Derby would allow foreign-built ships to come here subject to a duty which should go to our own builders, as a remission, and would also take off the duties from wool and salt, that the ships may have something to do when built. He thought that by reduction of such duties the revenue could be increased from one hundred and twenty millions to one hundred and eighty millions. He favored subsidies—as did Mr. McKay also—and the coming home of the American ships now under the English flag, and thought the average duty of forty-eight per cent. now paid on imports too great a rise from fourteen and a half before the war. Congress will, no doubt, weigh all these arguments. But when all is done, in the way of removing the duties, we shall still be face to face with the labor question, and an inconvertible currency. "Time and chance," however, may help us to deal with these also.

Mr. Gladstone's decision, that to comply with the numerous memorials for the release of the Fenian prisoners would be contrary to the duty of Government, as guardian of the public security and peace, is much to be regretted for many reasons. These prisoners are, very many of them at least, suffering the penalty of crimes which were provoked by defects in the Government of Ireland. The very fact that Mr. Gladstone himself is pledged to the removal of those defects, and has partially fulfilled that pledge by his Irish Church legislation, is an acknowlegment of this. To be consistent he should be merciful toward the Fenians. The plea that this course would endanger security and peace would be humiliating if it were true. It is, at all events, humiliating to him. But the real interpretation of his action probably is that he fears the Tory Party in the House, which might charge him with mistaken leniency toward traitors and with a sympathy with revolutionary ideas. And, no doubt, the Tories could get up a tolerably strong ultra-loyal combination against him. The calm good feeling of the country generally will, we fancy, charge him, as it is, with moral cowardice.

Perhaps it is necessary, in a certain degree, that passengers to and from the Fulton Ferry should keep in daily exercise their faculties of caution, readiness, resolution and physical agility, in attempting to get from one side of South-street to the other. But where is the need of that little tunnel at the end of Fulton-street through which the wayfarers, up and down, are forced to jostle and scuffle. There is, certainly, in the general mind a kind of partiality toward the genial industries of that place, which are chiefly of the succulent and literary order. But have the public no rights which those stand-keepers are bound to respect? And would not a clearance of those passages at both sides of the market, with a removal of the sheds along the South-street line, be a great relief of that crowded and perilous locality? One is sometimes tempted, in spite of our republicanism, to wish that we had such a despot as Haussmann in the City of New-York for a year or two.

CARLOTTA PATTI CONCERTS.

Mlle. Carlotta Patti sang last evening at Steinway Hall, in presence of a very numerous assemblage. We are not prepared to refer the enthusiasm her performances excited to the encouraging effect of the praiseful Boston prose liberally distributed among the audience, but rather to the genuine pleasure they caused. She rendered Fors 'è lui, from "La Traviata," Bevegnani's "Tarentella," and her share of a duet from "Linda," with an animation and a skill that were quite sufficient to justify the incessant demonstrations of delight. An encore followed every song, but failed, we note, of the desired result. All the artistes who took part in Mlle. Patti's earlier entertainments were heard in this one, and Herr Hermanns, a basso possessed of a voice of exceptional compass and volume, appeared besides. M. Prume executed with rare sentiment, and his usual command over the mechanical difficulties of his instrument, the fantasia "La Mélancolie," and won a unanimous recall. The adagio and finale of Mendelssohn's concerto, and "Veloce," one of the pianist's own compositions, were exquisitely given by M. Ritter. Herr Habelmann and Herr Hermanns sang with poor judgment as to their selection of pieces, but with satisfactory consequences, nevertheless. And Signor Ronconi, whose vocal affairs are carried on with a very small capital, executed the well-worn aria from "La Cenerentola." Mlle. Patti and her associates occupy Steinway Hall this evening, and appear there, for the last time for some weeks, to-morrow afternoon.

GERMAN OPERA IN BROOKLYN.

The first of two German operatic representations was given at the Brooklyn Academy of Music, last evening. "Martha" was sung. Mme. Rotter was Lady Henrietta; Mme. Frederici, Nancy; Herr Himmer, Lionel, and Herr Weinlich, Plunkett. The performance was a most satisfactory one, and that portion of it for which the orchestra, under Mr. Carl Anschutz was responsible, was absolutely perfect. To-night the same artistes will give "Die Zauberfloete." They are to appear at the French Theatre, we are glad to see, on Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday of next week.

BUSSMEYER'S CONCERT.

Herr Hugo Bussmeyer, a well-known pianist, gives a soirée musicale at Steck's Hall to-night. Mme. Anna Werner and Herr Carl Feininger will assist him.

Dramatic.

BENEFIT OF MR. CHANFRAU.

Mr. F. S. Chanfrau, the genial comedian, whose impersonation of Sam at the French theatre has already had mention here, is to benefit by the representation at the same house this evening. The final performance of "Sam" takes place to-morrow night, and after it shall have been given, the theatre will be closed for a fortnight to allow for the preparations for the production of the new English drama.

The New-York Genealogical and Biographical Society.

Within a few months past there has been organized in this City and incorporated under the laws of the State, an association under the above title. Its object is one which will commend itself to the favor of a large class of philosophic minds who are daily becoming more and more persuaded of the importance of tracing to its fountain-head and ascertaining the original elements of the blood which courses in the veins of more than one million of persons now residing in and about this cosmopolitan City. That the element of the inheritance of race characteristics is destined to figure largely in the future biographical literature of America, none can doubt who has taken the pains to mark the great attention now given to genealogical studies.

The impulse proceeded from New-England, which has taken the lead in so many useful historical and scientific researches, and which has had for more than twenty years an active genealogical society at Boston. It is little more than a quarter of a century since the first systematic family genealogies began to be published in New-England, and now there are more than a hundred to be found upon the shelves of our principal libraries. Many of them are far more than a mere dry compilation of names and dates. They often contain carefully-prepared biographical sketches of the prominent individuals descended from ancestors common to thousands. Some of these books contain accurate statistics of from five to ten thousand persons who have borne or now bear the name of some early Puritan who came over in the Mayflower, or in the great fleet with Governor Winthrop. The uninitiated can scarcely understand the delight with which the thorough genealogist disinters from the dust of centuries the slightest documentary material which may illustrate the fortunes of his remote ancestry, but the convenience of possessing in a single volume all that can be learned by the most patient research concerning one's ancestry, and having at hand a Directory of one's relatives—near and remote—can readily be appreciated by all.

Under these circumstances it is surprising that no movement for the formation of such a society has ever been made in New-York prior to the present year. But instead of lamenting the tardiness of New-Yorkers in entering upon this fascinating field of research, it is more satisfactory to us to note that the fault has been repaired, and that we now possess an organization of enthusiastic genealogists prepared to do efficient work in this interesting line of research.

The new Society has done wisely in securing as its first President, Dr. Henry R. Stiles, of Brooklyn, whose Genealogical History of Ancient Windsor is one of the three or four best books of the class in existence. It is no small praise of this work to say that it is worthy to stand beside Judd's History of Hadley, Sibley's History of Union, Me., and that prodigy of careful and conscientious labor Bond's Genealogies of Watertown. Dr. Stiles has also distinguished himself by his recent History of Brooklyn, and has done much to render the library of the Long Island Historical Society the brilliant success which it is conceded to be.

Dr. David P. Holton, the Vice-President of the Society, was largely instrumental in its organization, and has munificently offered to present the Society with a site for erecting a building in connection with three other Associations in which he is interested.

For the present, the Society holds its sessions in the Mott Memorial Hall, in Madison-avenue. Several hundred works have already been collected as the foundation of a genealogical library. Several less formal meetings have already been held, but the most active of its sessions was that held upon Saturday, the 16th inst., when important measures were discussed and adopted. The Society listened to an extremely valuable paper upon the "Method of Genealogical Work," by Mr. Moore, followed by other gentlemen who supported his views. Rev. John Beveridge, recently returned from several years' residence in Peru, Chili and the Argentine Republic, gave an interesting account of the native Indians of South America with reference to their origin. It is understood that this gentleman is soon to publish a work upon his "wanderings under the Southern Cross."

The next regular meeting of the Society will be held at the Mott Memorial Hall on Saturday of next week. Those interested in its objects will do well to communicate with the Secretary, Dr. W. F. Holcombe, at the above address.

Detention of an Alleged Cuban Vessel.

United States Marshal Barlow yesterday ordered the revenue cutter Seward to watch the steam yacht Anna, now lying at Erie Basin, Brooklyn, and to detain her until such time as he had ascertained her character. The vessel was built by Supervisor Blunt, but was subsequently sold. It is now suspected that she is [illegible] use by the Cuban revolutionists.

[illegible] Attacks of the Gold Ring on the President and Mrs. Grant—General Alcorn's Position in Mississippi—Personal—Revenue Matters.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—The fresh assaults of the gold gamblers and their organs upon General GRANT, this time dragging in the name of Mrs. GRANT, attract renewed attention here, not only for their matter, but for their shameless audacity. No one here ever credited any of these wicked charges, and since the President's plain letter to Mr. BONNER nothing like suspicion even has existed. But these new developments seem to have been made with a view to breaking the force of the President's denial. He needs no defence from such attacks. The base attempt to connect the name of Mrs. GRANT with the alleged operations is as wicked as every other part of the conspiracy. The charge that she wrote to Mr. CORBIN the letter from which an extract purports to be made in one of the New-York papers of to-day, is effectually answered by the fact that she never wrote to Mr. CORBIN on any subject, and never wrote anything to any member of his family that could possibly be tortured in such shape. All statements or assumptions that CORBIN or any one else ever had or exerted the slightest influence in determining in the President's mind whether gold should or should not be sold, are, like all the rest, false without qualification; and if Mr. CORBIN, or any one else, ever made any use of the name of the President or Mrs. GRANT in connection with operations of any kind, it was not only without their consent, but wholly without their knowledge, and it is hardly necessary to again declare that neither of them ever had any interest, direct, indirect, contingent or remote, in any transactions of the kind, or ever sought to control, advise or direct in any such matters, or ever had anything but words of warning against the unscrupulous and designing men whom they saw setting their toils for their unwary friends. The wicked attempts to thus injure the fair name of the President as a man, and the last despicable effort to drag from the sacred privacy of the family circle the name and womanly fame of Mrs. GRANT, deserves, as it must receive, the universal execration of all decent people.

GENERAL ALCORN'S POSITION.

The report is current in Mississippi, and is telegraphed north from that State, that General ALCORN, the Republican nominee, is not eligible as a candidate for Governor of that State, because his political disabilities have not been removed. The fact is, that the disabilities were removed by the act of July 20, 1868. There being some doubt whether the language of that act conformed to the requirements of the Fourteenth Amendment, a supplemental act was passed during the Spring session of the Forty-first Congress, to remedy the deficiency by making the language more explicit.

EXCHANGE OF LEGAL TENDERS.

Treasurer SPINNER wishes it known that he will receive in exchange for the new issue of legal tenders nothing but legal tenders, either deposited with him or with an assistant or designated depository other than national bank, and certificate forwarded to him. As yet he has received barely $40,000 of the new issue of twos. It will, however, shortly be increased.

REVENUE DECISION.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has decided that farmers and stock growers who buy cattle and pasture and fatten them and sell them for beef are not cattle brokers in the meaning of the law, and therefore not liable to the special tax. The real cattle broker under this decision is one whose regular business it is to buy and sell cattle in value greater than $10,000 per year, simply for profit.

THE PRICE OF COAL.

The price of coal is falling even in Washington. The Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate to-day contracted for 800 tons best furnace coal at $7 40. The highest bid received was $8 75.

PERSONAL.

General BELKNAP, the new Secretary of War, telegraphs that he will leave Keokuk on Monday next for Washington, which will enable him to arrive here on Wednesday. Bishop SIMPSON's daughter ANNA will be married in Philadelphia on Wednesday next to Mr. J. RILEY WEAVER. The President and Mrs. GRANT will probably be present on the occasion. Chief Justice CHASE has taken the fine new house on I-street, near Nineteenth, next to the residence of the Postmaster-General, and owned by J. D. HOOVER, Esq. His family establishment this Winter will be separate from that of his son-in-law, Senator SPRAGUE. Secretary ROBESON has taken a fine house on I-street, near Sixteenth, where he will hold forth in his genial manner during the Winter. Secretary BOUTWELL has taken commodious quarters in the new house at No. 429 Twelfth-street, where, though not housekeeping, he will be able to see his friends in a modest and comfortable manner. Solicitor BANFIELD, of the Treasury Department, has taken the new house just erected at No. 378 O-street, near Tenth. Among the arrivals in the city to-day are Congressmen STARKWEATHER, of Connecticut; Hon. J. D. RAMSEY, of Albany, and J. W. FABENS, the financial agent of St. Domingo.

Dispatch to the Associated Press.

THE MISSISSIPPI ELECTION.

The following officers of the army are assigned to-day in connection with the registration and election in Mississippi, and will report to General AMES by the 1st of November for duty: Brevet Majors William Wilson, Charles J. Van Herrman, C. J. Wilson, Captain Oscar Hogen, First Lieutenants George S. Spaulding, E. C. Henshaw, F. M. Lynde and W. H. H. Crowell.

THE SEMINARY HOSPITAL CLAIM CASE.

In the United States Court of Claims the case of DOUGHERTY, administratrix, against the United States, was argued. The claim is for the rent of the Seminary Hospital in Georgetown, D. C., which was rented in June, 1861, by Quartermaster CAMP, at $300 per month, for such a time as the Government chose to occupy it. At the end of one year the Secretary of War ordered the rent to be reduced to $200. The Quartermaster notified the owner of the reduction, and the rent was then and thereafter, for two years, paid at the reduced rate, the owner giving monthly receipts in full. In July, 1864, the owner applied to the Secretary to have the rent restored to $300, as rents generally had risen. This was refused and the Government continued to occupy and pay at $200, the owner receipting monthly in full until June 1, 1865, when the Government surrendered the premises, paying for a full month, and received a receipt in full. The plaintiff's counsel argued that the original contract, calling for $300, was binding upon the Government for the whole time, as the Government no more than an individual could arbitrarily change a contract. The Assistant District-Attorney argued that upon notification that only a reduced rent would be paid the fact that the owner did not demand the premises, but received and receipted for the reduced rent, proved an acquiescence in the change, and in the view of law made a new contract. The case has been taken under advisement. The decision is looked for with great interest, as this is precisely analagous to a large number of cases of steamers, or other property used by the Government, now pending in Court or in prepation, and involving millions of dollars.

THE REVENUE.

The receipts from customs and internal revenue thus far during the month have not been as large as a corresponding time last month, and it is thought by the Treasury officials that the total at the end of the month will show a decrease from both sources. The expenditures this month, however, have not been very heavy, and the public debt statement to be issued on the 1st of November will show a considerable decrease in the total.

Commissioner DELANO has received a letter from Supervisor BLOOMFIELD, in Illinois, showing that Tazewell County, Illinois, for the year ending Sept. 30, 1868, paid a revenue tax of $124,000 from all sources, and for the year ending Sept. 30, 1869, a tax of $318,000. During the former year most of the distilleries in Pekin were run most of the time, and [illegible] period [illegible]. During the past year only one distillery was run continuously, and it alone paid a tax of $[illegible], being more than the whole county paid the previous year.

On the 1st of November, $25,646,000 in coin will be required to pay the semi-annual dividend on the Five-twenty bonds. The Treasury has now on hand about $84,000,000 in coin, $28,000,000 in coin certificates, and about $8,000,000 in currency. After the payment of the draft required for the interest, over $58,000,000 will remain on hand, and no more will be required for the payment of interest till the 1st of January.

THE SABINE AT GIBRALTAR.

Commander WALKER, of the steamer Sabine, reports to the Department from Gibraltar, Oct. 1, his arrival there from Lisbon. All well on board.

APPOINTMENTS.

The following appointments have been made to-day: W. C. GRAY, Collector of Internal Revenue, Seventh District of Pennsylvania, vice W. M. C. SWAYNE; MAHLON YARDLEY, Collector, Fifth District of Pennsylvania, vice JOSEPH BAMSLEY; PHILIP BRAUBACK, Collector, Third District of Texas, vice R. A. LANE.

SUPREME COURT.

In the Supreme Court the argument in the case of the Hudson Canal Company vs. the Pennsylvania Coal Company, was concluded to-day. The following cases were argued: L. W. DEAN vs. ROBERT D. HARVEY, an appeal from the Circuit Court of the Northern District of Georgia. The object of the bill in the case was to set aside and avoid a sale of real estate, made by DEAN, because the consideration to be paid therefor was solely in Confederate notes. A case of replevin from the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, and a case of mortgage from Louisiana.

HAYTI.

Advices to the Fifth—Sharp Engagement Between Salnave's Steamers and the Rebel Quaker City and Florida—Matters About Jacmel—Gold Fluctuations—Punishment of Brokers.

Advices from Hayti to the 5th inst. have been received here via St. Thomas. News had reached Port-au-Prince of an engagement between SALNAVE's two steamers, the Salnave and the Alexandre Petion, and the rebel steamers Quaker City and Florida, in the neighborhood of Cape Haytien. The two former vessels were steering east at 5 o'clock in the morning, when they espied the others. On coming within hailing distance, the Captain of the Salnave ordered them to show their colors within ten minutes' time. The Quaker City, without noticing the demand, doubled round quickly and ran into the Salnave, striking her starboard paddle-wheel. Simultaneously both vessels fired and a warm engagement ensued, both the Florida and the Alexandre Petion joining in. The Quaker City, seeing that she could not sink the Salnave, and finding the fire too deadly, backed to give a broadside, but did so without effect. The Salnave, though in a helpless condition, kept up a fire which compelled the Quaker City to draw off. During the fight the Petion fired a hundred-pound solid shot through the Quaker City, which lodged in the Salnave. A shell fired from the Petion burst on the deck of the Quaker City with terrible effect. The rebel steamers having retired, the Alexandre Petion towed the Salnave to the Cape in a sinking condition.

JACMEL.

General VICTOUN CHEVALIER, the Secretary of War, and General VIL SULIN had left Port-au-Prince for the South, to look after the Government forces in the neighborhood of Jacmel, and push operations against the rebels in that quarter. Notwithstanding their presence with the troops, the town had not yet been attacked. They had, however, notified the foreign Consuls at Jacmel that they must look to their safety, and also that they could no longer allow the foreign mails courier to proceed from Jacmel to Port-au-Prince, as usual. At Aux Cayes all was quiet.

GREAT ADVANCE IN GOLD.

Port-au-Prince was perfectly tranquil, but things continued to grow worse and worse, in proof of which the fact may be stated that gold has advanced to $1,800 of the Haytian paper money for $1 in gold. The President had all the Government brokers arrested and thrown into prison, charging that they were the cause of gold advancing so frightfully. To punish these men he had some twenty of them sent to the army to fight. After this gold fell in three days to $1,200. The Government had again imposed the monopoly of coffee, but public opinion was so adverse to the scheme that it was believed it would fail again as it did before. In consequence of the advance in gold, dry goods and provisions were at fabulous prices—a barrel of pork, $55,000; a box of smoked herrings, $550; a box of soap $2,600, &c. SALNAVE had been quite sick, and it was feared that the bad news about his steamers would make him worse.

CURRENT NOTES.

Vermont has ratified the Fifteenth Amendment. The vote was taken by yeas and nays in each House, and was unanimous in the Senate. In the House there were twelve votes against it, but Colonel DICKEY, of Bradford, the acknowledged leader of the Democracy, and their candidate for Speaker, voted yea, as did also Mr. BISHOP, of Bolton, hitherto staunch and faithful in the ranks of the old line Democrats.

At a late political meeting in Texas, JOHN H. REAGAN, who was Postmaster-General of the late Southern Confederacy, said he was decidedly and unequivocally opposed to running a straight-out Democratic State ticket, as has been advised and urged by a few extreme malcontents, and that he was equally opposed to any man running for those offices or for Congress solely on the grounds of his orthodox Democracy.

The ceremony concluded at 8 o'clock, and was followed by a brilliant reception at the residence of the bride's parents, at No. 605 Fifth-avenue. After the congratulations of the guests had been tendered the young and happy couple, and the gems and silks and satins had been rolled away in carriages, Mr. and Mrs. PATTISON departed for Philadelphia.

THE ERIE STRIKE.

The Men Still Holding Out—Progress of the Contest.

From Our Special Correspondent.

PORT JERVIS, Thursday, Oct. 21, 1869.

The Erie Railway strike is still in progress, and the men confident as ever of success. The Company show no signs of yielding or the men either. The report that a portion of the Long Dockers had resumed work was discredited in part—some reports say two-thirds of them were at work while others say not over thirty or forty have resumed. A delegation from the Port Jervis shop was sent to Jersey City this morning, and 11 o'clock A. M., a dispatch was received from them stating that "all was working right," and this reassured the men here. To-night the discharged employes will hold a meeting at Firemen's Hall, to hear the report of delegates from Buffalo, who are expected to arrive. It is reported here, and confidently believed by the shopmen, that the men of the shop at Dunkirk, one of the largest on the road, have struck. Those at Newburg, it is said, have also expressed a desire to join in the movement.

Since Saturday a few men have been working on in the shop at Port Jervis, but now work has about ceased and all are out. A report is being circulated here to-night that orders have been received to close the Port Jervis shop, which is only looked upon by the men as another scare, to induce the men at Long Dock, Susquehanna and other points west to go to work, as the closing of the shop they think would put an end to the controversy. Those persons who have had long experience in railroads say it is impossible to close the shops at Port Jervis for any length of time, as it is the end of two divisions, and on the portion of road where the greatest mishaps occur, and it is necessary that the shops be continued. When CHAS. MINOT was President of the road he made one or two unsuccessful efforts to remove the shops to Jersey City, but found it impracticable.

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers held a meeting last night, the nature of which has not yet been made public.

THE SPRING VALLEY MURDER.

Trial of Antoine Maurer for the Murder of Joachim Fuerter.

The trial of ANTOINE MAURER for the murder of JOACHIM FUERTER in the month of March last was commenced in the Rockland County Court of Oyer and Terminer, at New-City, before Judge TAPPAN, on Tuesday, and was concluded yesterday. During the trial a large crowd of persons of both sexes from all parts of the county were present, for the affair has created a great excitement throughout the community. The murder was committed, it is supposed, on the 12th of March, for upon the 14th of that month FUERTER's body was found in a field near the house of a Mr. KRAUSS, at which he had been stopping for a few days previous. The body was disfigured by blows with stones, and by deep gashes from a knife, which was discovered near the spot where the corpse lay. The coat and pantaloons of the murdered man had been removed, and one of the pockets of his vest was turned inside out, and its contents gone. A gold watch, which he was known to have carried, was missing. The Coroner's inquest developed the fact that in the October preceding, the deceased had become acquainted with MAURER on board the ship coming to this country from Germany; also that the two had kept up their acquaintance since their landing here; that FUERTER, who was a tailor by occupation, profitably employed, had loaned money to MAURER on several occasions; finally, that FUERTER had come to KRAUSS' house in the neighborhood of Spring Valley, at MAURER's request, to receive some money from him. MAURER was soon afterward arrested in a shoemaker's shop, where he had been employed two or three days, in Upper Piermont. He had come to the place two days before the body of FUERTER was discovered, and it was proved at the trial that he inquired of two persons whether they had heard of the murder. A hat found in the field, near the body of the murdered man was also identified as his, and pawn tickets for FUERTER's missing coat and pantaloons were found in his possession. Upon the trial the fact was proved that MAURER, when he left his boarding in Brooklyn to visit Spring Valley, had a few cents only in his possession; when he was arrested he had a considerable sum for which he could give no satisfactory account. There were many other minor circumstances developed, which served to fasten the guilt upon him, and although he carefully explained every suspicious circumstance and his counsel made powerful efforts to clear him, the charge of Judge TAPPAN at the close of the summing up was strongly against him. The jury retired at 9 o'clock on Wednesday evening, and were out until 9 o'clock yesterday morning, when they came into Court with a verdict of "Guilty of murder in the first degree." The prisoner heard the verdict with perfect composure.

An Infernal Machine in a Letter.

From the Boston Herald, Oct. 20.

As Mr. E. P. COTTING, a mailing clerk in the post office, was engaged in stamping letters at 7 o'clock last evening, something contained in [illegible] exploded with a loud report, [illegible] powder or other matter burning his right hand and wrist so badly as to require dressing by a physician. The envelope was also badly torn by the explosion, so much so that the name of the party to whom it was addressed was destroyed. Enough was left, however, to show that it was directed to Mrs. S., Box No. 361, Woonsocket, R. I. The superscription appeared to be in a lady's handwriting, and it is conjectured that some jealous or revengeful woman had taken this method to mutilate if not kill the object of her hatred. The murderous missive was dropped into one of the boxes at the post office between 6 and 7 o'clock, and hopes are entertained that the guilty party will be discovered.

THE INDIGENT BLIND.

Applications for their Share of the State Fund—Scenes at the Bureau of Charities and Correction.

The poor blind people of the City, who have lived all the year in anticipation of the comparatively trifling but to them by no means insignificant addition to their slender means of subsistence, afforded by the act of the Legislature appropriating $25,000 for their relief this year, began to gather Monday at the Bureau of Charities and Correction, to make their applications in proper form. Owing to the difficulty in reaching the attention of these people, few of them knew the time of making application, and not more than one-fourth of those belonging to the wards for which Monday was designated made their appearance, while many straggled in from other districts, and were told to come another day. Those coming from these lower Wards are, for the most part, from the most wretched grade of human beings, many of them living in squalor, huddled together five or six in a single wretched room, in what are called lodging houses and boarding houses in Baxter, Mulberry and similar streets. Most of these are engaged in peddling cheap cigars and tobacco, or in some equally unremunerative employment, and not unfrequently show symptoms of vicious habits. Most of them are viewed with more or less suspicion, and it sometimes requires pretty sharp investigation to ascertain their real condition. No money is given out until, in addition to the sworn statements of the applicants, and the certificates of two respectable citizens, a "visitor" reports in favor of the donation. Most of the applicants were men, and had, or professed to have, some regular occupation. They were generally led in by some friend, but occasionally wandered in alone, feeling their way with a cane, and in a plaintive voice, sadly suggestive of street begging, made their anxious inquiries. One old man was far from attractive in appearance, and was accompanied by a wife who, besides being still more repulsive by nature, was decidedly in liquor. Such a blind man receives no encouragement unless on investigation he appears worthy, and can be assisted without having any money get into the hands of his wife. The manner of the officials and attendants necessarily becomes quite business like, but the fund at their disposal is made to go as far as it will extend in relieving the deserving members of this unfortunate class. From the upper wards, (especially the Twentieth,) whence the applications are expected in a few days, many come who are graduates of the Institution for the Blind, and a very noticeable improvement is seen not only in their character and appearance, but also in the nature of their occupations and the manner of their lives. These make brushes or other articles or gain a livelihood as musicians and teachers. All make application for a portion of the fund, and take their chances of being rejected. Last year one applicant was found to be the owner of $2,000 in United States bonds and the recipient of a pension of $300 per annum. Nearly all such cases are detected as the visitor is generally informed of the history of the blind in each district. As the news is spread that these applications are now received, it is expected that larger numbers will flock to the corner of Eleventh-street to put in their claims.

Young Men's Christian Association of this City—Details of Their New Building.

Facing the National Academy of Design, and on the corner of Twenty-third-street and Fourth-avenue, stands the elegant new building erected by the Young Men's Christian Association of this City. This edifice, although hardly completed as yet internally, will at once attract attention as being one of the few buildings of which New-York has the right to feel proud. It has five stories, and is constructed of brown stone from Belleville, N. J., relieved by alternate layers of the light freestone of Ohio. It is built after what is known as the renaissance style, with the popular Mansard or French roof. In length it has 175 feet front on Twenty-third-street, and eighty-five feet width on Fourth-avenue. In the basement are located the bathrooms and bowling alley, while the spacious gymnasium is on the first floor, the rest of these lower stories being rented for stores. The American Tract Society will occupy the corner store. The second and third floors will be used exclusively by the Association. Going up a stone staircase and turning to the left the first room is the reception room; beyond this is a spacious reading room. To the right of this room are the social parlors, the grates in which are suggestive of blazing, comfortable, home-like fires during the cold Winter evenings. The washroom and Secretary's room are also close by. On the right of the staircase is the large assembly room, with galleries extending around three sides and a fine large organ, built by ODELL, stands to the left of the platform. The seating capacity of this apartment is estimated from twelve to fifteen hundred. The room is handsomely frescoed and tastefully fitted up. Courses of lectures will be delivered here by popular lecturers during the Winter months, besides divine worship every Sunday evening. On the third floor is a small lecture room and also classrooms, where the languages and music are to be taught to members. The library is situated on this floor, with a capacity for holding 60,000 volumes. The fourth and fifth floors are already rented to artists for studios, &c. The janitor's rooms are on the fourth floor.

The entire cost of the land and the building will amount to about half a million, $300,000 of which has been already contributed. The library at present numbers only between three and four thousand volumes, and contributions to this department are greatly needed to meet the increased size of their new library room and the wants of the Association. The Society is in a very flourishing condition, numbering nearly 3,000 members. It is hoped by the officers of the Association that they will be able to move into their rooms by the 10th of next month. On the evening previous to the dedication a grand concert, both vocal and instrumental, will be given in the new assembly room by the best talent in the City, and the proceeds are to aid in paying for the organ. Over the main entrance to the building is a cross, with the motto: "In Hoc Signo Vinces," and flanked on either side by the dates of "1852," "1869." RENWICK and SANDS are the architects, who designed and carried out the erection of this noble addition to the buildings of the Metropolis. As an agent for the promotion of the best interests of young men, and as affording them a home and home comforts and associations, this institution deserves the support and sympathy of all our citizens, and when fairly established in their new quarters, we may look for increased success in their particular sphere of utility and employment.

Does the City Hall Belong to the City or Wm. M. Tweed and His Confederates?

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

I noticed in coming from Court to-day that the "Tammany Ring" has seized the only white marble building we have in our Park, and appropriate the same to party purposes. They have conspicuous signs on the east side of the building, "Tammany Hall Naturalization Committee Meet Here," as if the City Hall were the property of this gang, who style themselves the people.

Now, Mr. Editor, I always supposed that political societies consisted of individuals who desired office for themselves, but never that they claimed an absolute ownership of public property. But Tammany has enjoyed office so long that the triumvirate absolutely believe the people and public property belong to them. Tammany has sold its nominations, and its nominees declare that they will be the future officers of this City. A nomination is equivalent to an election while our political affairs remain under the control of "the Ring." An honest Democrat is told to vote the ticket printed and handed to him, (by these self-constituted rulers;) that if he won't vote that ticket he can't help himself. He has nothing to say in a free country as to the persons who shall hold office—"that is fixed beforehand," and all he has to do is "to vote the straight ticket."

But, Sir, when these demagogues seize public property for private uses, is not such conduct illegal?

No Tammany Hall nominee desires office for the public good, (as was the design of the founders of our institutions;) they desire office to get money out of the public treasury; they desire to advance their own interest and not the public welfare, and when they seize the only decent public building we have, (for the yellow walls of the other betray the corrupt times upon which we have fallen,) it is time that a protest be entered against this prostitution of our public buildings for partisan purposes.

The Concrete Pavement Again.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

The concrete pavement put on the Fifth-avenue, between Thirteenth and Nineteenth streets, is already almost worn out. It has been patched up two or three times already between Thirty-third and Thirty-sixth streets, and needs to be fixed again. Therefore many of us, residents of the avenues, are surprised that those who run the City Government have the face, I may say the impudence, to continue to cover the up-town streets with it. It won't last three months, and they know it. By publishing this you will much oblige many

THE HOWARD MISSION.

Some Account of the Work which is being Done Among the Lowly of the Fourth Ward—Recent Changes in the Mission.

The Howard Mission and Home for Little Wanderers is located in the Fourth Ward of this City. It is surrounded by a region in which the population exists at the rate of 290,000 to the square mile, and where there is an average of less than two dwelling houses to each grog shop, dance-houses or other establishments for the propagation of wretchedness. Of course this region swarms with children, and some of them have honest and decent parents who are very poor, and many are the unhappy victims of vicious parentage. A few have barely comfortable homes, and in all places human wants multiply. The aspect of the region is simply appalling. No humane person can pass through it without profound sadness and with a painful heart. To ameliorate this in some manner is the object of the Mission. The remedies to be applied are judicious charity, education and religion, and the transfer of children to country homes when possible.

The principal work is with the children. Endeavors are made to benefit them in two ways. First, when their parents or guardians can be induced to relinquish their legal and full control of them they are taken into the Mission and kept there until they can be transferred to comfortable homes, where they will be placed under decent, intelligent and religious training. Second, the children are gathered into Sunday and day schools when the parents will not surrender them to the Mission or consent to their being sent away. The Mission has in its schools at different seasons from 300 to 700 children, most of whom would not be in the public schools for want of clothing, soap and water or inclination. They sleep at home, come to the Mission in the morning, and are washed when dirty, clothed when ragged and fed with a wholesome dinner. The Mission and schools are conscientiously and thoroughly conducted by competent officers and teachers.

The work among the children brings us in contact with the parents, secures their confidence, and enables the Mission to become acquainted with its conditions and wants. An efficient missionary visits many in the neighborhood, giving good advice and, when necessary, distributing bread tickets.

Besides the Sabbath School, the Mission conducts preaching services and prayer meetings through the week, to which the children, with their parents and friends, are invited.

The week-day classes are taught sewing by the Superintendent. Situations are procured for persons out of employment, and habits of industry and self-help are inculcated. The office is open from 8 A. M. to 7 P. M. All appeals are patiently listened to, and judicious help is extended to all distressed applicants and needy persons. The work is necessarily broad, comprehensive and miscellaneous.

Several changes have taken place within the past few weeks in the management of the institution. The venerable Dr. J. M. WARD resigned as President in consequence of feeble health; Mr. SAMUEL T. HOWARD resigned as Trustee and Treasurer because of inability to attend to the duties of those offices, and Mr. H. BREWSTER also resigned. With the close of the day school, in July, Mrs. A. E. RULISON and Miss A. W. ARMSTRONG also passed from the institution. A. C. ARNOLD is no longer connected with the Mission. Mr. JAMES R. THOMPSON has been elected a member of the Society and also of the Board of Trustees; and at the meeting of the Board, on the 4th October, CHAS. CALLENDER, Esq., of Newark, N. J., was chosen to membership in both bodies. Mr. WM. PHELPS, connected with the Mission from its earliest inception, and for years the esteemed and efficient Treasurer of the Board, has also resumed his place and office. The Board of Trustees is now constituted as follows:

President—A. S. HATCH, No. 5 Nassau-street. Vice-President—C. CALLENDER, Newark, N. J. Secretary—J. S. HOWELL, No. 94 Chambers-street. Treasurer—W. PHELPS, Nos. 264 and 266 Canal-street. W. SANFORD, No. 239 Water-street; W. H. SUTTON, Jersey City, N. J.; C. B. KNEVALS, No. 93 Wall-street; J. R. THOMPSON, No. 33 West Twenty-sixth-street.

Rev. W. H. VAN METER, well known as the former Superintendent of the Mission, has been invited to resume that office, and he will probably do so as soon as his health will permit.

A Repentant Counterfeiter—A Singular Letter.

A brown paper parcel, containing $8,000 in counterfeit twenty-five cent currency, was forwarded to Colonel H. C. WHITELY, Chief of the United States Detective Force, through Adams Express. On opening the package yesterday the Colonel found a letter inclosed with the "queer," in which the writer, "W. C.," stated that he had dealt extensively in the stuff but had abandoned it now forever; the quantity of counterfeit money forwarded was all he had on hand. Having heard that the Colonel was looking for him in New-York, "W. C." had left that modern Sodom and sent the package as a last token of six years guilt and crime. Suicide to him was far preferable to a felon's doom, and he implored that all further pursuit be abandoned, as he had determined to reform. The prayer of the writer will probably be granted.

Naturalization.

One hundred and fifty new citizens were made in the Superior Court yesterday. This is the only Court now entertaining applications for naturalization, and owing to the fact that to-day is the last for this purpose, Judge MCCUNN will sit all day, and from 7 to 9 o'clock in the evening, in the General Term room of the Superior Court, to pass on applications. The officials engaged give their assurances that all are passed without question as to their political affinities.

Pere Hyacinthe.

Father HYACINTHE was comparatively undisturbed yesterday. But few persons called on him, and he spent most of the day in reading in his room at the Fifth-avenue Hotel. In the afternoon he strolled out for a walk on the avenue, and, having returned to his hotel, retired early. His photograph, at BRADY's, Broadway and Tenth street, attracts much attention.

The Workmen's International Exhibition.

The Committee of the Workmen's International Exhibition, to take place at London in 1870, have issued a circular informing all who are interested that, in addition to articles of skilled workmanship, the Committee will admit specimens of agricultural produce of a character not easily perishable, such as wine, cotton, wood, rice, &c., and products used in manufactures, more particularly samples of new materials.

Suspicious Case of Death.

In consequence of contradictory statements made by LYDIA GRIFFIN, of No. 198 Rivington-street, regarding the death of HENRY GRANT, a colored man, she was on Wednesday arrested at the instance of Coroner KEENAN. The skull of the deceased had been fractured, and the prisoner has confessed that she threw a stone at another man, and struck GRANT, with whom she lived as wife.

An Old Forgery Case Completed.

A warrant was issued in 1866, by a magistrate of Catskill for the arrest of LOUIS LEVIN, on a charge of forgery and larceny. Wednesday morning MARCUS LIPPMAN, of No. 262 Sixth-avenue, was informed in a down-town store that an order purporting to have been signed by him had just been presented, and he at once pronounced it a forgery. As the bearer was still in the store he was arrested, when it was found that he was LEVIN, the fugitive from Greene County, and while he was being escorted to the Tombs he [illegible] was remanded to Police Headquarters and [illegible] sent back to Catskill.

Colonel Higginson's First South Carolina Regiment.

THOMAS WENTWORTH HIGGINSON, known during the war as the Colonel of the Thirty-third United States Colored Troops, (First South Carolina Volunteers,) and known before and since the war, far better, as one of our most accomplished men of letters, has called a meeting of the officers and soldiers of his old command, to assemble at the Astor House at noon on the 10th of November, to form a Regimental Association.

Stabbing Affray.

Wednesday night JOHN GORMLEY and JOHN EDGE, watchman on the barge Susquehanna, quarreled on the pier foot of Warren-street, North River. EDGE was stabbed twice in the neck by GORMLEY, who was armed with a large clasp knife. EDGE was taken to the City Hospital, and as his injuries were considered dangerous, Coroner FLYNN was notified to hold an ante-mortem examination. GORMLEY was arrested and locked up in the Third Precinct Police Station.

Board of Excise.

At the weekly meeting of the Board yesterday WM. KENSINGTON, of No. 134 Broadway, was tried for disposing of liquor on Sunday; case dismissed. JOHN BRUNHARDT, of No. 14 Avenue D, was indicted for a similar offence, and the case was likewise dismissed. The Board then adjourned.

EDITOR'S DRAWER.

The present Number completes the Thirty-ninth Volume of HARPER'S MAGAZINE. While no change is contemplated in the general character of the Magazine, the conductors will not fail to avail themselves of any suggestions which may add to its present interest or permanent value. Special and increased attention will be given to the departments of Popular Science and Industrial Arts. Papers on these subjects will be profusely illustrated. It is proposed that the various Editorial Departments shall give a complete résumé of the times. Each of these departments is placed in the charge of one member of the Editorial corps, all, however, under the supervision of the Editor-in-Chief. The Easy Chair will comment upon topics relating to social life and manners. The Book Table will criticise the important books of the day. The Monthly Record will note all important political events. The Drawer will present the facetiæ and anecdotes of the time.

HARPER'S MAGAZINE contains from fifty to one hundred per cent. more matter than any similar periodical issued in the English language. Thus the ample space at the disposal of the conductors will enable them to treat fully of all the topics embraced in their plan.

The Publishers feel themselves warranted in asking and anticipating for the future a continuance of the favor which has been accorded to their enterprises in the past.

REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS.

Yesterday was another very busy day at Plainfield, N. J. Messrs. A. D. MELLICK, JR., & BRO. had an extensive and very successful sale. Between three and four hundred persons went down on the special train. At the village depot a number of carriages were in waiting to carry the guests to the place of sale, where they were joined by a goodly number of local buyers. A fine collation was served under the immediate superintendence of Mr. D. C. HYDE, who exerted himself to the utmost to please and satisfy his numerous visitors. After lunch the sale commenced, and until after 4 o'clock the auctioneer was kept busy offering and selling lots. The morning promised warm, comfortable weather, but early in the afternoon a cold, raw wind sprang up, and after that the day was very disagreeable, yet the people would not give up, but, bearing the weather, followed the auctioneer from plot to plot, bidding and buying until it was time for the special train to return. The property was in fine condition, having been recently laid out and graded under the supervision of Mr. R. GRAVES, the old New-York City Surveyor. The streets were in good order for pleasant riding, and a large number of persons from the adjoining towns attended in carriages.

The Exchange salesroom also presented a very busy appearance. Three sales were made, amounting in all to $101,410. Quite a variety of up-town west-side improved and unimproved property was disposed, of at very fair prices. The room was better filled, and more enthusiasm exhibited, than at any previus sale this season.

No more suburban sales will be made this week. On Monday Messrs. JOHNSON & MILLER have quite a large sale at Homestead Station, N. J., only ten minutes' ride from Pavonia Ferry. The lots are at and near the depot, and will be sold absolutely and without reserve. Maps, tickets and full particulars may be had at the auctioneers' office, No. 25 Pine-street.

Messrs. A. D. MELLICK, JR., & BRO., whose names are familiar to all interested in New-Jersey, finding their old quarters rather cramped for their rapidly-increasing business, have removed to the large and convenient offices No. 6 Pine-street, where maps and particulars of their sales to be made next week may be obtained.

SALE OF THE UNITED STATES ARMORY AND OTHER GROUNDS AT HARPER'S FERRY, WEST VA., AND VICINITY.

ORDNANCE OFFICE,
WASHINGTON, Sept. 25, 1869.

In pursuance of the act approved Dec. 15, 1868, and by direction of the Secretary of War, the property of the United States at Harper's Ferry, West Va., and vicinity, will be sold by public auction, on TUESDAY, the 30th day of November, 1869, commencing at 10 o'clock A. M. and continuing from day to day until all is sold.

The value of this property for manufacturing purposes is too well known to render it necessary to describe it herein, but a description of the same is being prepared, and will be sent to persons who may wish it, as soon as it is printed, upon their applying by letter to this office.

The property will be soldin lots. The first will include the Musket Factory, embracing a strip of land running to the western boundary, on the Potomac, the Armory Canal, and water power of the river. The walls of two large buildings are standing on this ground, and the foundations of several others; and the water wheels, with gearing, and the flumes are in almost perfect order. Three of them are turbines, of the most approved kind, and the others are mostly cast iron with wooden buckets.

The second will be the site of the Rifle Factory and water power on the Shenandoah, the buildings upon which have been destroyed, but the canal is in good order.

The third will be the Shenandoah Ferry, with a tract of 68 acres of land on the south, and a lot on the Harper's Ferry shore opposite.

The fourth will be the perpetual right to cut and remove wood from a tract of 1,395 acres mountain land across the Shenandoah.

The fifth will be the right to dig iron ore from a tract of about 1,400 acres of land known as Friend's Ore Bank, acquired by deed from Henry Lee and others.

The remainder, consisting of houses and lots in the town, will be sold lot by lot.

The Government will convey to the purchasers, after payment shall have been made in full, all its right and title to the property, which is believed to be perfect in every case.

The terms of sale, prescribed by law, are a credit of one and two years, the purchasers to give bond and security for the payment of the purchase money; and these terms must be complied with within ten days after the sale.

A map, showing the metes and bounds of the Harper's Ferry property, will be exhibited at the time of sale.

The Government reserves the right to withdraw any or all lots offered, if the bids are not satisfactory.
A. B. DYER,
Brevet Major-General, Chief Ordnance.

NOTICE TO DELINQUENTS.

Persons who purchased lots in 1852, and have not fully paid for them, are notified that if they pay what is due before the day of sale, the lots will be deeded to them, otherwise they will be resold.
A. B. DYER,
Brevet Major-General, Chief Ordnance.

AN IMPORTANT DECISION.

A Railroad Company Heavily Mulcted.

A Passenger Recovers $27,819 11 from the Hudson River Railroad Company for Overcharging him to the Amount of $15 01.

By an act of the Legislature passed March 31, 1857, section 17, in relation to extortionate charges by railroad companies, it was provided in relation to the Hudson River Railroad Company, that it should be entitled to charge passengers at the rate of two and one-half cents per mile for the distance traveled thereon during the months of December, January, February and March, and two cents per mile during the other months of the year, or $3 for the through trip. By the same act it was provided that all sums charged to passengers above this rate should be recoverable back from the Company in an action at law therefor, together with a fine of $50 for each separate instance in which such overcharge is made. On the 9th of May, 1866, PHILO JOHNSON commenced an action in the Superior Court of this City against the Hudson River Railroad Company, wherein he alleged that, between that date and the 5th of May, 1865, he had made 540 trips on the Hudson River Railroad between Spuyten Duyvil Station and the depot of the road at Twenty-ninth-street, in this City, a distance, he alleged, of less than ten miles, for which they charged him at the rate of 25 cents a trip in Summer and 30 cents in Winter, that sum being, as he alleged, in excess of the legal rate, and therefore in violation of the statute. He further alleged in his complaint that on each occasion of the excessive fare being paid by him he formally protested against the right of the Company to collect it, and on one occasion having refused to pay, he was ejected from the cars. His complaint concluded with a demand for judgment for the amount so overpaid, together with the amount of the fine $50 for each violation of the statute. By various legal appliances, the defendant quietly, though persistently, managed to retard the hearing of the case until June 24, 1869, when by an order of Judge FITHIAN, the cause was referred to Hon. CHAS. P. KIRKLAND to hear the testimony and report to the Court. After a hearing of four months the referee rendered his report, certifying to have found that the plaintiff had made 526 trips on the cars of the defendants' line between the periods stated in the plaintiff's complaint; that 177 of these trips were made during the Winter months, for which the plaintiff was charged at the rate of 30 cents per trip, and 349 trips were made during the other months of the year, for which plaintiff was charged at the rate of 25 cents per trip, the whole distance being a fraction over ten miles. He found from this that the entire amount overcharged to plaintiff on the Winter trips amounted to $3 54, and on the Summer trips, $11 47, making in all the sum of $15 01 overcharged him during the year; and, that for each of these overcharges the defendant was liable in a fine of $50, to be paid the plaintiff according to the statute. This report of the referee has now been confirmed by the Court, and judgment entered up in favor of the plaintiff for the sum of $26,315 01 fines and overcharges, $123 interest and $1,381 10 costs, making the entire amount recovered by plaintiff, $27,819 11.

JUDGE BENEDICT'S CHARGE.

Important Instructions to the Grand Jury in the United States Circuit Court.

In the United States Circuit Court, Southern District, yesterday, Judge BENEDICT delivered an important charge to the Grand Jury, in the course of which he said: "The statutes which it will be your business to aid in enforcing for the most part relate to the Post Office, to the Currency, and to the Revenue. Violations of these laws, although by no means so alarmingly frequent and bold as at one time, are still frequent. Whether they shall continue or substantially cease, depends in great measure upon the industry, the intelligence, and the courage of the Grand Juries, for from the scrutiny of the Grand Jury no illegal transaction is exempt; and without the action of the Grand Jury no offender can be brought to punishment. You will not, I trust, consider your duties to be merely formal or clerical. They are far otherwise. I might show this in many ways; one will be sufficient, and I take for that purpose the law in regard to smuggling. In order to prevent smuggling, it is enacted not only that goods sought to be smuggled shall be forfeited, but also that any person who shall knowingly smuggle, and the aiders and abettors of such person shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be liable to a fine not exceeding $5,000, or to imprisonment not exceeding two years, or both in the discretion of the Court. Now this offence is one frequently committed in this port, and seizures and condemnations of smuggled goods are common proceedings. But it is many years, I apprehend, since any smugglers have been indicted by a Grand Jury in this Court. I certainly recollect no conviction for this offence in this Court for ten or fifteen years past. The result is that it has come to be understood that a person attempting to introduce goods without payment of duties runs only the risk of losing his goods, and as there is in this community a very considerable class of persons willing at any time to assume almost any mere pecuniary risk, the business continues. But the number of those willing to face the definite danger of two years' imprisonment in the Albany Penitentiary is comparatively small, and to that number the business of smuggling should be and would be confined, if the criminal provisions of the law were properly enforced. This accomplished, not only would an increase of revenue follow, but the honest importers would be relieved from that dishonest competition which is now so often ruinous. This illustration is sufficient to indicate to you the mischiefs which follow neglect in the enforcement of the criminal provisions of the Revenue laws, and also serves to call your attention to the responsibility in regard to this subject which attaches to you as members of the Grand Jury. You cannot afford to ignore that responsibility, for all now know and you must know that without recourse to the criminal laws of the United States, the existing taxes, upon which rests the security of the public debt, cannot be impartially collected—at least in this locality. I therefore urge upon you the necessity of a firm and thorough enforcement of the criminal laws, not because I desire to see severe punishments inflicted upon offenders, but because I desire to have some punishment sure. It is the certainty of punishment, rather than the severity of it, which is effective in the prevention of crime, and when it comes to be known that all offenders against the laws of the United States are promptly indicted by the Grand Jury, and that while no man suffers punishment under these laws without due proof of his guilt, no man escapes punishment by reason of his wealth, his position or his power, the effect will be to diminish the number of offences—to improve the efficiency of the civil service and to increase the revenue. If this greatly to be desired result shall not be reached, see to it, gentlemen, that none of the responsibility of the failure rests upon you.

Council of Evangelical Churches.

At the meeting of the Council yesterday, Right Rev. Bishop MCILVAINE, of the Protestant Episcopal Church of Ohio, Rev. Dr. FOSS, of the Methodist Church, Rev. Dr. MATTHEWS, of the Reformed Church, Rev. Dr. SCHMUCKER, of the Lutheran Church, and Rev. Dr. WATERBURY, of the Presbyterian Church, were elected Presidents to preside at the different sessions of the Council in succession, and Professor W. H. CROSBY and Dr. ISAAC HERTLEY were chosen as permanent Secretaries. All clergymen and officers of Evangelical Churches present were enrolled as corresponding members of the Council. Letters were read from several eminent divines and laymen who had been invited to the Council, but were unable to attend, among whom were Chief Justice CHASE, President WOOLSEY of Yale College, and Professor PHELPS of Andover.

The following list of topics for discussion was submitted to the Council and referred to the Business Committee:

1. Evils of schism among evangelical churches, and importance of unity. 2. How can funds for education, provided by the State, be secured from their abuse, or the dissemination of religious error? 3. How to promote the work of Foreign Missions by infusing a spirit of more catholicity and coöperation into the whole system. 4. The new and solemn responsibilities of American Christians, arising from the unprecedented amount of immigration, not only from Papal countries, but also from the lands of paganism, as China, Japan, &c. 5. How far it is expedient, and in what manner it is best to employ the talent for teaching found among the laity of the Church. 6. Preaching—The primitive and apostolic element of success. 7. The imperative duty of the churches, as such, to carry the Gospel to the masses of the people. 8. Evils resulting from the inadequate support generally given to the ministry by the churches in our country. 9. Duties of Christians of the present day in reference to the wide-spread corruption prevailing among our civil rulers. 10. How far the profanation of the Sabbath can be remedied or abated by employing the power of the civil Magistrate for the purpose. 11. Intemperance—Responsibilities of Christians in America with regard to it. 12. The most desirable methods of fraternization in all suitable localities, by Conventions, &c. 13. Responsibility of Christians in our country as to the Press, both secular and religious. 14. How can true Apostolic piety be revived among all Christians?

The first topic for immediate discussion was amended so as to read as follows: "The evils of schism among Evangelical Churches and the nature and importance of Unity."

Bishop MCILVAINE gave his views on this subject, and said that while he regarded it of the highest importance that there should be a harmony of sentiment and a feeling of brotherly love among all Christians, he did not think it a matter of consequence that all should be organized under one form of church discipline.

Rev. Drs. BACON, CROSBY and HUNT followed in a similar strain.

At the afternoon session of the Council, Rev. J. M. MATTHEWS, of the Reformed Church, presided. Five resolutions about church unity were presented by Dr. SCHMUCKER. The general tone of the debate which followed, and which was participated in by Rev. Drs. HOLDICH, BACON, PRIME, DE WITT, WATERBURY and SCHMUCKER, favored a general union of sentiment on the part of Evangelical Christians. The resolutions were adopted. A committee of five was appointed to report a plan to perpetuate this or a similar Council, to hold regular annual meetings. This Committee consists of Drs. HOWARD CROSBY, Presbyterian; LEONARD BACON, Congregational; S. S. SCHMUCKER, Lutheran; L. H. KING, Methodist, and J. COTTON SMITH, Episcopal.

THE TURF.

The Jerome Park Fall Meeting—The Extra Day's Racing—The Steeple Chase—Entries and Weights for the Handicap.

To-morrow (Saturday) is the extra and final day of the Jerome Park Fall Meeting, and the American Jockey Club, in order to wind up the racing season of 1869 with éclat and success, have issued the most attractive programme of a day's sport of the entire meeting. The most interesting feature of the racing is a steeple chase, the first ever held over Jerome Park, for a purse of $1,000, added to a handicap sweepstakes of $25 each, for which we believe there are seven entries. The entire course of the steeple chase is in full view of the occupants of the grand stand, and is about two miles and a half in length, with twenty-two jumps to be taken. The probable starters are Zigzag, Bohannon, Harry Booth, Lobelia, Eminence, Mitchell, and a horse from Canada. Old Zigzag's reappearance on the turf will be welcomed with satisfaction and pleasure by hundreds of his old partisans, and his victory would cause the old horse and his owner to become the recipients of a warm and general ovation.

The second race is a free handicap sweepstakes for all ages, $25 each, with $600 added, over one mile and three-quarters, has nineteen entries, which are handicapped as follows: Lancaster, 6 years, 116 pounds; General Duke, 4 years, 110 pounds; Sanford, 4 years, 108 pounds; Metairie, 5 years, 108 pounds; Julius, aged, 107 pounds; La Polka, 4 years, 106 pounds; Lizzie Rogers, 4 years, 105 pounds; Aldebaran, aged, 105 pounds; Sleety, 5 years, 103 pounds; Jubal, 5 years, 99 pounds; Sarah B., 4 years, 96 pounds; Albuera, 4 years, 93 pounds; Niagara, 3 years, 87 pounds; Glengary, 3 years, 85 pounds; Tasmania, 3 years, 85 pounds; Mitchell, 3 years, 84 pounds; Rapture, 3 years, 80 pounds, and Oneida, 3 years, 77 pounds. The acceptances for this race will be declared to-day.

The third race is a selling sweepstakes, $15 each, with $300 added, one mile and an eighth. The fourth is a mile heat race for a purse of $500, entrance free; both these races closing to-day. With such an attractive bill of fare, and with fine weather, we fully expect to see the largest concourse of people that has been present at Jerome Park during the meeting.

The Turf—Herdie Park, Williamsport, Penn.—Interesting Events.

WILLIAMSPORT, Penn., Oct. 21.—At the National Horse Fair at Herdie Park, the adjourned race for the $5,000 purse was concluded after four heats, Idol taking the purse. Time—2:32½, 2:36¾, 2:32¼, 2:35½. The trot for the $1,500 purse was also concluded, Tom Kelly carrying off the prize. Time—2:34½, 2:34½, 2:36½, 2:38¼, 2:36¾, 2:37.

In the trot between Goldsmith Maid and American Girl, for a purse of $7,000; $5,000 to first, $2,000 to second, the first heat was declared a dead heat, on account of American Girl running. In the second heat American Girl broke badly, and the Maid won. The third heat, after a close contest, was won by the Maid by a length and a half. The fourth heat was won easily by the Maid.

THE GOLD MUDDLE.

Effect of the Settlements at the Gold Exchange Bank—Another Injunction.

The Gold Exchange Bank commenced yesterday morning to pay twenty-five per cent. of all ascertained claims of creditors against the institution, and succeeded by the close of business hours in satisfying the demands to this extent of all but nine of the parties whose money had been locked up in the vaults since the 24th of September.

The creditors were well satisfied that the promises which had been made were at last fulfilled, and were led to hope for a final solution of the difficulties. Among those who obtained a settlement were Messrs. CHASE, MCCLURE & Co. who were among the nine reported by Mr. H. M. BENEDICT, President of the bank, on the memorable Friday, as having failed to settle their balances. The difficulty with this house grew out of a difference in a gold transaction, which was submitted to the Arbitration Committee of the Stock Exchange. Upon a report being made on Wednesday, the debtor came forward promptly, responded to the decree, paid up his indebtedness, and thus enabled Messrs. CHASE, MCCLURE & Co. to resume business. The Gold Exchange Bank also paid a sufficient part of the amount held in the vaults to the credit of this firm. There is another injunction against the Gold Exchange which, it is said, will be pressed in case the injunctions now pending are vacated. Mr. JOHN W. GILLESPY brings the suit, which is of the same character as those now awaiting decision—restraining this Board and the Stock Exchange from enforcing their rules to the detriment of the plaintiff.

Another Interesting Railroad Controversy Decided.

An interesting question connected with the rights of the New-York, Housatonic and Northern Railroad Company and the Boston, Hartford and Erie Railroad Company, as regards the location of their tracks through the village of Danbury, came up for adjudication before the Board of Railroad Commissioners a few days since. Some time ago the first named Company located their road through Danbury, which action was accepted and approved by the Commissioners, and the road between Danbury and Brookfield, the extreme northeastern section of seven miles, after some delay was finally built and opened for public travel, but below the Danbury Station no work whatever has been done during the past year. The Boston, Hartford and Erie Company desiring to pass through Danbury on the line selected by the New-York, Housatonic and Northern Company, endeavored to enter into some arrangement whereby they could either lay down a track for their own use or run on any track which the latter Company might lay down in due time.

For the privilege of laying down tracks over the located line, it is said that the sum of $100,000 was demanded, which the Boston, Hartford and Erie Company declined to give, and referred the subject of their rights in the town to the Commissioners, who, after hearing both sides, decided that the New-York, Housatonic and Northern Company had forfeited their rights as regards the unconstructed portion of their road, in the matter of location, by default, having failed to proceed with building the road according to the provisions of their charter. The Commissioners then accepted the report of the engineer of the Boston, Hartford and Erie Railroad, and approved of the location of the same.

What effect the decision of the Connecticut Railroad Commissioners will have upon the pending negotiation of the New-York, Housatonic and Northern Railroad Company's bonds in Europe, and the consequent resumption of work in building the road, remains to be seen.

Sharp Search for Fisk, Jr.

United States Deputy Marshal CHRISTIE was recently ordered to serve a summons on JAMES FISK, Jr., informing the latter that he had been selected as one of the Grand Jurors of the United States Circuit Court, now in session. Numerous efforts were made to find the redoubtable speculator, but without success. Mr. CHRISTIE finally abandoned the hunt, believing, no doubt, that the object of his search possessed the ubiquity of Sir BOYLE ROCHE's bird, being everywhere except in one particular place.

A.—WHO IS THE GREATEST PHILANTHROPIST?—He that doeth the greatest good to the greatest number. Who is the greatest philanthropist of the present day? KNOX, the hatter! Why is he entitled to occupy that proud position, sought after by so many? Because he covereth thousands who call on him, and alloweth none to go away dissatisfied. Thus has KNOX, by his persevering industry, not only reached the head of his profession, but he has also by his deeds clearly shown that he should be called the greatest philanthropist of the day. By the way, those Fall styles of KNOX's are perfect beauties, easy and becoming to the wearer, and, what is more cannot be beat.

A Choice Security.

SEVEN PER CENT. GOLD,
Free of Government Tax.
NEARLY 10 PER CENT. CURRENCY.
FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS
OF
NEW-YORK AND OSWEGO
MIDLAND RAILROAD.

THESE BONDS CAN BE REGISTERED.

SIX MILLIONS OF DOLLARS PAID-UP STOCK SUBSCRIPTIONS. No bonds issued on road under construction; issue limited to $20,000 per mile of road built and in running order, BEING ONLY ABOUT HALF THE ACTUAL CASH COST. The road is being built with great economy for cash; 200 miles are done, and in the most thorough manner; 50 miles additional will be finished in November; and the whole line (over 400 miles) it is expected will be completed within the ensuing year. It is one of the most important roads in the State of New-York. It shortens the route from New-York City to Buffalo 70 miles, and to Oswego 45 miles; it traverses a populous district destitute of other railroad facilities, which must furnish it a large and profitable local business; and it will be completed at an aggregate cost far below that of any competing line. These advantages cannot fail to make it one of the best paying roads leading from the metropolis, and its First Mortgage Bonds one of the safest securities ever issued. All mortgage bonds issued on Railroads running from the City of New-York are good, and the interest promptly paid, although some of them are mortgaged for more than double the amount per mile that the Midland is. Among the bonds now offering we know of none equal to these. For the investment of trust or other funds there is nothing better; and in exchange for Government Bonds they give a large increase of income, beside capitalizing the premium. They are meeting with rapid sale, and we have been gratified to find that they are taken chiefly by our most conservative and sagacious capitalists in exchange for Government securities. Price par, and accrued interest in currency. Circulars, pamphlets, &c., on hand for distribution.

PACIFIC RAILWAY
GOLD LOAN.

Messrs. DABNEY, MORGAN & CO., No. 53 Exchange-place, and M. K. JESUP & COMPY, No. 12 Pine-st., New-York, offer for sale the BONDS of the KANSAS PACIFIC RAILWAY. These Bonds pay SEVEN PER CENT. IN GOLD; have thirty years to run; are Free from Government Taxation; are secured by a Land Grant of Three Million Acres of the Finest Lands in Kansas and Colorado. In addition to this special grant the Company also owns Three Millions of Acres in Kansas, which are being rapidly sold to develop the country and improve the road. They are a first mortgage upon the extension of the road from Sheridan, Kansas, to Denver, Colorado. The road in operation now earns more than enough net income to pay the interest on the new loan. There is no better security in the market—this being in some respects better than Government Securities. Principal and Interest payable in Gold. Price 96, and accrued Interest in Currency. Pamphlets, Maps and Circulars furnished on application.

OF THE
Danville, Urbana, Bloomington and Pekin Railroad Company
OF ILLINOIS,
PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST PAYABLE IN GOLD AT THE FARMERS' LOAN AND TRUST COMPANY, NEW-YORK. COUPONS PAYABLE FIRST OF APRIL AND OCTOBER.
FREE OF GOVERNMENT TAX.

Total Issue..........$2,000,000
Capital Stock..........3,000,000

The Bonds are a first mortgage on the railway, its rolling stock, depots, machine shops, lands, and the entire property of the Company.

LENGTH AND TOPOGRAPHY.

The road is 117 5-100 miles in length, the only East and West line connecting the Cities of Danville, Urbana, Bloomington and Pekin on the line of the old Emigrant Road. This section has been justly named the Garden of the West, and is noted for its large agricultural and manufacturing products, also for its valuable mines of coal. The local business will make the line a FIRST-CLASS PAYING ROAD.

VALUABLE CONNECTIONS.

In addition the Company provide for a large through business, having as MANY VALUABLE CONNECTIONS EAST AND WEST AS ANY ROAD now in operation. The line has lately been consolidated with the Indianapolis and Danville Road, making over 200 miles under one management.

At Indianapolis it connects with the Pennsylvania Central, Baltimore and Ohio, also with several other lines at Danville, with the Toledo, Wabash and Western, and at Pekin with Peoria, making a new through direct route in Illinois, connecting Philadelphia, New-York, Boston and Baltimore with Peoria, Keokuk, Burlington, Omaha and the Far West.

COMPLETION OF THE ROAD.

The road is being rapidly constructed, all graded and bridged, the track laying at the rate of one mile per day, all the iron and a large amount of rolling stock provided. The whole road WILL BE COMPLETED BEFORE THE 1ST OF JANUARY NEXT.

PROFIT OF THE INVESTMENT.

The bonds average LESS THAN EIGHTEEN THOUSAND DOLLARS PER MILE, are CONVERTIBLE INTO STOCK AT PAR, at the option of the holder, at any time, and may be registered in the name of the owner if desired.

The stocks of several of the principal lines of Illinois are selling at from above par to nearly 200. There is a reasonable prospect of the stock of this road, at no distant day, selling as high as either of them, which makes the convertible clause a valuable option.

We have PERSONALLY EXAMINED THE ROAD, and consider the bonds A CHOICE SECURITY; we therefore take pleasure in recommending them to investors as SAFE, PROFITABLE AND RELIABLE. A large portion of the loan has already been sold.

We are authorized to offer them for the present at 95 and accrued interest in currency, the Company reserving the right to advance the price, without notice. At this price THEY PAY TEN PER CENT. in currency—nearly FIFTY PER CENT. MORE THAN THE SAME AMOUNT INVESTED IN GOVERNMENTS. Gold and all marketable securities received in exchange at highest market rates. Bonds forwarded by express free of charge.
